Editor's Notes

The Ides of March are upon us.

We start our March into spring in Tanzania where Head Mistress joins the Dar Es Salaam Hash House Harriers. A block of ice does not last long in the East African sun, so you must be quick to sit on it before it melts, or use it to keep the local Safari Beer cold.

Palm Springs is southern California's answer to fun in the sun all winter long. The new Palm Springs H3 fills the void left when the Betty Ford Rehab Hash retired gracefully after 30 wonderful years. A short drive from Palm Springs across the desert highway is the upcoming Phoenix Red Dress Run held in honor of the dearly departed Lady in Red.

Quick Drawers traveled to Hong Kong to attempt four hashes in four days. Could he do it? Read his account to find out. Hong Kong is a short flight from Chengdu, which will host one of two All China Nash Hashes this year. For those who can't make it to Chengdu this month, head to All China Nash Hash Two in Beijing this September.

The prolific HHiggins, mastermind of Brussels Beer Odyssey in 2014 gives us a glimpse of European Hashes taking place this time of the year. April fools will be treated to 24 Belgium Brews next

HASHING IN AFRICA

Julia 'Head Mistress' Stanton's recent travels in Sub – Saharan Africa have just taken her to Tanzania in East Africa where she joined the Dar Es Salaam Hash House Harriers on their regular Monday evening hash.

Last month I found myself in Dar Es Salaam for work and naturally I looked up the local Hash House Harriers chapter. The website told me 'since everyone and there mother is on Facebook, we've decided to use our fb group to post updates for weekly hashes, we are entirely too lazy to post to more than one website'. So doing as instructed I joined their Facebook group and found an active hash with updates to the next hash meet up and location. (I wish more hash groups who are too lazy about their website would have such a message.)

Having found out the information about the run location, I then set off to find with the help of a driver. It seemed straightforward 'Olive restaurant' next to the South Africa butcher and there was a Google map provided showing the location. I was actually more concerned about getting stuck in the terrible traffic jams that everyone talked about that are common in many African cities mainly caused from too many cars on small roads. However, traffic was not a problem and finding the place became an issue as I discovered that the Google Map location and the prominent landmark of the South African butcher didn't work. We started driving around and I called the restaurant who gave directions. Even with that we seemed lost and even more lost when we asked some Masai tribesman who were hanging around on a street corner for directions. Finally through another phone call the restaurant was sighted just in front of us with a sign that you could barely read. After this they provided a much larger hash friendly sign so nobody else even the totally directionally challenged hasher could not get lost.

After all this singing, visitors and virgins are invited first to have some food (a very good custom, other hashes should adopt) and more drinking and socialising continues until everyone starts drifting off leaving the die-hard drinkers behind.

On a final note, I was originally told by a Saigon hasher who shall remain nameless but frequently travels to Dar to work on World Bank water projects, that the Dar hash were very boring, hash around town and only sing one song. I found them to be a little more interesting than that.

The Bagamoyo Relay - to be held last weekend of May

Every year, the Dar Es Salaam Hash House Harriers hold a unique Hash event, called "The Bagamoyo Relay". It is a great fun packed weekend, with lots of Hashing, drinking and entertainment for all. As the name suggests it is a relay from Dar es Salaam to Bagamoyo. The route is approx. 52 km long and split into approx. 15 legs, which mixes walking and running legs. The route goes through tracks and small roads/paths towards Bagamoyo through streams and up some muddy hills (weather dependent on the mud of course). Hashers are split into approx. 20 teams of around 15 Hashers (depending on numbers attending) and each team members are assigned a section of the route to either run or walk.

The first team members selected to run the first leg joins the start line and the remaining team jump into their transport and follows, sometimes the same route or a route that takes them to the end of each leg, arriving in Bagamoyo before sunset.

On arrival, there is a quick drink and circle before shower and dinner. Sunday is followed by the Historic "Hair of the Dog hash" around Bagamoyo- followed by a circle, and prizes awarded from the day before.

HONG KONG HASHES

4 DAYS = 4 HASHES

by Quick Drawers
some pics by Hopeless

Sai Kung Saturday H3, Jan 21st with a 4PM start, was the first time my travel dates had matched up with this monthly hash groups schedule. It was worth the wait. SKSH3 contact “GunpowderPlod” provided me with email instructions, to meet up with him, his trusty dog “Dougal” and a Virgin Harriette - “Just L”, near the Tin Hau Temple in Sai Kung. Riding to the start, at the picturesque Tso Wo Hang Park, overlooking Sai Kung Harbor, and setting up drink coolers, it wasn’t long before the Hares “Hungary Cock Climber” and “Hassan” came in, after pre-laying the Rambo and Wimp trails.

Note: At this point it’s probably appropriate to advise that usage of the term “Wimps Trail”, by the four various Hong Kong Hashes which I attended, in no way refers to a short flat easy going ya ya type trail. It’s mostly just somewhat shorter! I’m guessing the term “Rambo Trail” does however give you an accurate description of what you should expect in that case! Also, everyone knows Hong Kong Island itself is not flat, nor is much of the Kowloon mainland portion of Hong Kong.

This and the other three attended hashes on this short visit, did the obvious - by starting out across the road and proceeding straight up the side of an imposing 1,000-foot type hill. The climb initially used a few hundred, long unused steps and then continued into unspoiled undergrowth, except for the portions enhanced by the hares with their machete's, allowing hashers to get through the denser portions. You get the idea. Once careful footing got the pack near the top of this rugged trail, it linked up with an existing, frequently used path, which wound around the side of this impressive hill and then headed back down while passing thru a couple traditional housing areas. Back at sea level along the harbor, the pack returned up thru the length of the park area to the starting point. Sorry I didn't get the 1-hour+ time for "Burning Lust" the first Rambo in; but, the first Wimp "GunpowderPlod" assisted by "Dougal", came in at the 1.5-hour mark and the last wimp "Just L" came in somewhat later. Had I done the entire trail, I would have been behind her.

Considering Chinese New Year 2017 – Year of the Cock, was the following weekend, the turnout for this particular SKSH3 hash was much lighter than normal; but, the very personable hashers on hand, more than compensated for their reduced numbers. Everyone - Rambo's and Wimps alike thoroughly enjoyed SKSH3 hash #123 and its traditional circle ran by the GMs "Pissed in Pink".

I was very pleased to have been able to meet and hash with the SKSH3 group and I hope to hash with them again, during another visit to Hong Kong.

Thanks, SKSH3 for a fine hash.

WANCHAI

Wanchai H3, Sunday Jan 22nd This was my 2nd hash during this short visit and the one with the largest pack, which I estimated to be approx. 70+. Their homepage states the WH3 is a hash of “Men and Goodlookers” and it lives up to that reputation. There is always a large number of Fine looking Harriette’s in attendance and that may in turn encourage the good number of Harriers to turn out as well! It did this week.

Today’s 1530-ish start was at the Quarry Bay Park area and most of the pack listened attentively to one of the Hare’s - “Dr. Evil” with co-hare “Ball Breaker” (that should have been my first serious clues) and his comments on the days Rambo and Wimps trails. The other co-hare “Prickly Pussy” appeared the least intimidating of the three names.

Trail markings led the pack out of the park, at a brisk pace, and of course directly towards the imposing mountains behind the high-rise buildings, using most of the available semi-flat ground. The trail was well-marked for the most part as it rose straight up for the first 30 minutes until it reached a well-used natural path winding around the ridge line. This 3K+, Hong Pak Country Trail contour path, as it was called, was not very wide but typical in appearance and composition to other rugged dirt & rock paths which offered occasional panoramic views of the Quarry Bay area well below. We reached the start of the reasonably steep descent portion and its 700+ stairs at approx. the 1.5-hour point. Bringing up the rear, I got back into the start area after a full 2 hours. My knees and legs were happy to finally be there. I learned the Rambo trail was a little over 7K, while the “Wimp” course being almost exactly the same, except for one loop, resulted in it being Slightly less.

I would normally equate that trail with one that might be experienced at an AGM weekend event or Interhash of sorts, where it could be enjoyed more leisurely over say a 2.5 or 3-hour period. There were few actual WH3 “Walkers” in attendance and I was challenged to keep those few in sight. As you know, when you are in the middle of no-where you don’t want to be last or lost!

Everyone enjoyed themselves during the lively circle festivities conducted by GMs “Spinky McHu” and her assistant AGM’s “Hopeless” and “Haggis Humper”. The hares of course received their just rewards along with myself and a good number of others!

Thanks, Wanchai H3 for a Memorable Hash.

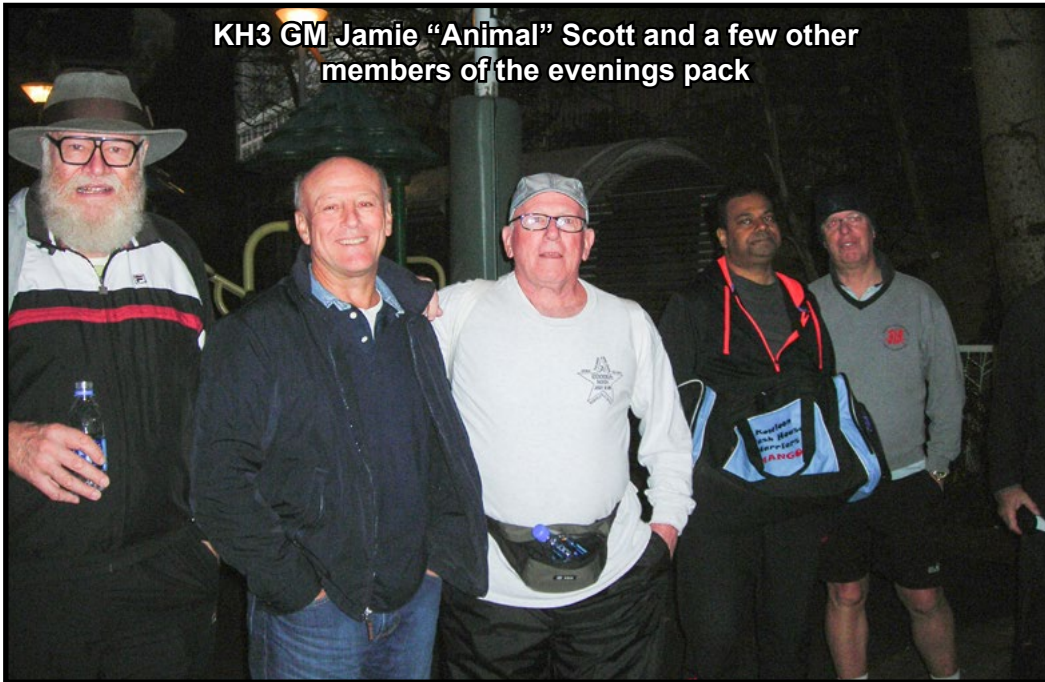

Kowloon H3

Kowloon H3, Monday 23 Jan. Here we are with my 3rd hash in 3 days and one that I was especially looking forward too. I'd been fortunate to hash with this group on 4-5 previous occasions, two of which were special AGM events. The hare for this night's hash was a long-time friend John "The Coalman" Arnold, noted for his well-marked trails and consistent 1 hour trail lengths.

The pack of about 25, consisting of equal parts Chinese gentlemen and equal parts Expats, assembled in the Ngau Chi Wan "sit out area" (local term) and hydrated themselves prior to the 6:30PM start. With torches = flashlights in hand, this distinguished pack headed out on time and (I know you guessed it) toward and up the nearest steep hill. With knees and legs having received more than ample exercise at the Wanchai H3, just the previous afternoon, I wisely decided to walk and chat with the GM Jamie "Animal" Scott and another savvy hasher. We missed a fair (ok large) portion of the actual well marked trail, run by the remainder of the very fit pack, and we managed to be the first to return to the end point. Successful short-cutting at last!

KH3 GM Jamie "Animal" Scott and a few other members of the evenings pack

Coalman & Prickly Puppy celebrating her 69th WH3 run just few days after my departure.

Enjoyable conversations ensued as the pack members returned expressing their pleasure for the evenings trail and its markings. John "Pigsarse" Barrett (involved with the organization group of the 1st World Interhash in Hong Kong in 1978) and I reminisced, about that fine trend setting event, its dinner at the China Fleet Club, etc. Hopefully he will be able to locate the patch from that hash and send me a photo, so I can have a copy made, having failed at the time to purchase one.

Dinner always follows each Kowloon H3 run and it was attended by almost everyone, with only 1-2 exceptions. The food was ordered, freshly prepared and enjoyed by all, along with a liberal amount of more cold beer. After dinner, the GM opened up the circle followed by the RA Bernie "Cupid Stunt" Yap and each executed their portion of evening duties in a timely and humorous manner. A really fine time was had by all at this KH3 event.

Thanks again gentlemen, it was indeed a pleasure.

LADIES OF HONG KONG H4

Ladies of Hong Kong H4, on 24 Jan. This my 4th and final Hong Kong hash, during the short 4-day visit, was another well attended hash. As expected, there were quite a few ladies and a lesser number of Harriers attending this weekly 7PM hash which started near a big fountain, in Hong Kong Park.

Today's hares, for this Scottish Themed hash, were Emma "Lost In Translation" McGovern and Sheila. They explained the usual trail markings used by LH4, along with some trail specific comments and wished the pack happy hashing.

Torches in hand, the enthusiastic pack was sent off running through the center of Hong Kong Park, past the waterfall and thru the gardens. In short order, it was then once again - uphill, for the next 30 minutes, using a variety of sidewalks, less traveled roadways and of course, more steps. A number of very clever back-checks were used by the hares and these kept the pack close together for the first 20 minutes or so. I chose to stick close with four ladies (very familiar with the immediate area) which thankfully were also walking this evenings trail. This small group continued to weave our way ever higher. After about 40 minutes on trail, our little group reached another one of many checkpoints. It had been solved and was again marked by the thoughtful front runners (surely one cannot use the term FRB referring to LH4 ladies). It clearly showed true trail continuing higher still. A brief discussion was held, a unanimous decision was agreed upon and the Ladies decided to Wing-it, yes downhill and back towards the Park and the cold drinks we knew were awaiting us there.

Hares for the LH4 Hash Emma "Lost In Translation", visitor Quick Drawers, and Co-Hare Sheila

Ample cold beverages where on hand as expected, snacks were enjoyed and preparations made for the dinner festivities immediately following. I unfortunately had an early morning flight to catch homeward, so I missed what was sure to be another fine LH4 dinner. I will be sure to plan my schedule better next time.

Thanks Ladies for a very enjoyable hash and your gracious company.

Sai Kung Saturday HASH HOUSE HARRIERS

SKSH3 – formed 17 February 2007

Run: 123

Date: 21 January 2017

Location: Tso Wo Hang

Hares: Hungary Cock Climber & Hassan

“Never let the Truth get in the way of a Good Story.”

THE START

Location: A new pagoda at Tso Wo Hang BBQ site overlooking Sai Kung Sea

Weather: Perfect!

The Hares: Hungary Cock Climber & Hassan

The, very exclusive, Pack: Burning Lust, Rooted, Gunpowder Plod (and Dougal), Elle (virgin), Quick Drawers (visitor), Geriatric.

Pissed in Pink for the circle only. The Widow Wanky lost in Sai Kung Town.

The pack at A – Plod has found another pagoda! But BL still hasn't found a t-shirt ...

THE RUN

The Hares are perhaps cursed. The last time Shirt Climber (as he then was) set a run, it was so sparsely attended that The Widow Wanky was first in. This time, the pack was marginally larger, though the Rambo trail was pretty much a private trail for Burning Lust and myself. The Joint route was virgin shiggy up San Ting Hang and behind Floral Villas and up the un-named murder mountain and down the other side to the split – Ed)

Burning Lust about to trip over a log

But what a trail it was! Despite it being a way out, the bright sunshine and thoughts of running where we don't usually hash made me determined to get to the start. It was just as well I was determined. BL in a desire for more exercise / to save money on bus fare decided we could walk from Sai Kung. He billed it as being a mile. I think it was closer to three. Never mind, we still made it to the start before 4pm. Not that we started on time as a hopeful HCC kept waving at passing buses in the hopes that a few more hashers might turn up late.

Underway, it was virgin Elle who led the pack to the first checkback with Burning Lust soon finding the way into the first bit of shiggy, slipping and sliding our way around behind Floral Villas.

Plod and Dougal emerging from some shiggy.

Navigating our way over the rocks and out of the shiggy, we were surprised by HCC taking photos. BL bounded on ahead with only Gunpowder Plod's dog Dougal sharing BL's enthusiasm. Our visitor from Virginia, Quick Drawers, decided that he'd done enough for a while and was whizzed to the in trail by the hare. He later reported that the motorcycle ride was the best bit of the trail. The rest of us were going up, up and up. BL's cries were getting further in front of me and likewise, Gunpowder Plod, Elle and Geriatric were getting strung out behind. Half way up, I recalled that the hares are passionate rock climbers and was suitably thankful that this route, while requiring a certain dexterity (and possibly longer legs than I have) did not quite require harnesses and ropes. Not that they wouldn't have been useful. Gaining the top, though not the summit, I paused to admire the views which really were quite spectacular.

From this point, it was a case of following where BL had been – looking for kicked out checks and question marks. I did toy with the idea of doing the wimps, but decided the Rambo trail looked fairly inviting with wide open paths which made a change after pushing my way through undergrowth. A fairly obvious route, though Hassan had put down a few checks to vary the markings.

Despite being more likely to meet a unicorn than a fellow hasher, or even another person, it was a great trail and it was with some disappointment when I found myself back on tarmac. Luckily, the hares had a few twists and kinks built into the trail, so it was not all running next to roads to get back to A. After going through a small village where I met most of the inhabitants' dogs, though still no people, it was back onto the main road and a mirage met my eyes. Was it some mischievous genie? No, it really was Gunpowder Plod, having done the Wimps, now making his way back to A! But what is the last km of a hash for, if not for racing? I soon whizzed past Gunpowder Plod (with Dougal pulling Plod in hot pursuit – Ed) and collapsed onto a bench at our A spot. A fabulous trail and all you who didn't do it should be kicking yourselves for missing a superb run (I use that advisedly as there was a large portion I had to walk)!

The Rambo route

The Wimps: Gunpowder Plod, Geriatric and virgin runner Elle Osborne completed the Wimps trail in 1hr 35mins and 2hrs respectively and, as promised by the Hares, it was a beautiful, well-marked trail slowly descending through forest on an old boulder trackway leading from Wong Mo Ying and emerging at Wong Chuk Wan via the beautiful chi tong and lake at Ngong Wo.

THE CIRCLE

At A it was a rather jolly atmosphere, helped by Hassan who was drinking for two, as HCC had to stay sober to drive the bike, or at least that's the excuse Hassan gave for finishing a pack of Tiger before the pack even got back. Once all were in and sufficiently rested and loosened up with beer, and having been joined by the wonderful but wounded GMs, Pissed in Pink, we were ready for the circle. I was called in as a last minute amah and appointed last minute scribe – as it is difficult to do both jobs, I have no written notes as to down downs given. (Good! – Ed) More than one certainly went to the hares for a great job with the trail, Elle not only as a virgin but for entertaining the hash with her yoga (making Gunpowder Plod yearn for Canton Clap, to help Elle with her positions, naturally). The circle was short and sweet and the OnOn was at Calimex in Sai Kung, well-chosen by the hares, where we were joined by Mrs Plod (who, like Trump, dislikes Mexican food! – Ed)

Sai Kung Saturday Hash House Harriers (SKSH3) is a mixed, family and dog friendly “hash” or cross-country hare & hounds running club meeting every 3rd Saturday of every month in Sai Kung, Hong Kong. Established by Guy “Gunpowder Plod” Shirra on 17 February 2007, it is the least expensive of HK’s 12 hash chapters having no run fee; runners purchase their own after run drinks next to Plod’s Pagoda in Wan King Path, the usual run start and finish point. An OnOn meal in Sai Kung usually ensues.

The All China Nash Hash has been happening every year since 2002, drawing Hashers from China and elsewhere to experience the rich culture of hashing in the Middle Kingdom. But there has always been a numeric discrepancy that this year will be addressed by having two Nash Hashes in one year. "Every year we have celebrated a Nash Hash in the year that was just one digit away (for example the 15th Nash Hash was celebrated in 2016)" explained Nash Hash GM John "Roomboy" Malins, "so this year we will have two Nash Hashes, thus bringing into alignment the number of Nash Hashes with the year it is held."

All China Nash Hash 2017 Chengdu

What's even better than bringing a certain numeric order to the proceedings for the balance of the century and beyond is the fact that Hashers in China will now get to celebrate hashing on a national scale twice this year."

The first Nash Hash will be scheduled for March 10-12 in Chengdu. This will also coincide with the Chengdu Panda Hash kennel's 500th run, which will occur on the second day of the weekend long event. There are three Hashes scheduled over the three day weekend, one each day, with an optional Rusty Man run scheduled for Saturday morning.

THERE WILL BE BOTH 'COUNTRY' HASHES AND CITY HASHES AT THE ACNH 2017 PART I IN CHENGDU

In 2017, there will be TWO All China Nash Hashes, Chengdu and Beijing.
Details below:

The Rusty Man Challenge is a particularly grueling event calling for participants to drink a pint of beer, run one kilometer, drink a second pint, run a second kilometer, drink a third pint, run a third kilometer, enter a designated restaurant, have a Full English breakfast with two Bloody Mary's, get out and run a fourth kilometer, drink a fourth pint, run the fifth and last kilometer, have a fifth and final pint and then put a spoon in your mouth balancing an egg on it while running an obstacle course. The Rusty Man Challenge has never been won by a man and the list of women competitors who have won reads like an all star roster of China's finest remain Hashers. There is no reason to believe that this year's Rusty Man Challenge will be any different. A big thank you to Haggis, from the Hong Kong Hash who has organized the Rusty Man and kept the event alive as one of the more competitive (drinking) events.

Europe Hash

RUNDOWN

by Higgins

Mardi Gras is the one occasion when civilians have a chance to dress silly, act foolishly and go to work - or not - with a slight hangover the day after. For us hashers every trail and circle provides such an opportunity.

I believe the only occurrence when a hash event piggybacked on a carnival this side of the pond was back in 2003 with Amsterdam H3 hosting in Maastricht.

Due to weather conditions the first quarter - which we call winter - is always light on hashing events in Europe. January traditionally sees Yorkshire H3 AGPU opening the season. This year it took place back at the Rendez Vous in Skipton, possibly the only hotel where you must check in with your hash name. February it's time for a bit of sunshine with the Madrid H3 annual Javea weekend, now jointly disorganised with the recently established Costa Blanca H3. March offers the opportunity to downhill ski with Vindobona H3 or to cross-country ski with Oslo H3 unless you really wants to perform a naked snow angel before going down the hole in the ice with Helsinki H5.

Moving swiftly along April Fools weekend will be another occasion to taste 24 different Belgian brews or so during Belgian Nash Hash in the historical city of Kortrijk. Later that month you'll have the chance to celebrate the double birthday of Europe's original fancy dressed hasher Neptunus (65th birthday and 25 years of hashing) at the EuroHash 2011 fabulous venue. It will also double up as Dutch Nash Hash for an all-in event, so cheap the theme for the weekend is "recycling". There are still places left so check it out at <http://www.2017neptunusweekend.nl/>

The biggest European event this year remains EuroHash in Vienna, featuring no less than 10 pre/post-lubes! By then it will be summer in one of the Top-10 Most Liveable Cities in the world. Trust King Ralph and his team to provide a well-organised top event for 800 hashers. There's only 30 places left at the time of writing so sign up today at <http://eurohash2017.feosc.org/>

To wrap up this small update rumour has it about a bid with a strong Scottish accent to bring EuroHash 2019 far up north to the Shetland islands before coming back to a more central location in 2021...

IRISH Nash Hash 2017

The Beginning

There once was a hash, called Dublin Hash House Harriers, where some of their members had a brilliant idea to host an event in 2017. Mainly to show off Ireland as well as lovely Co. Wicklow.

So the Irish Nash Hash was the event to have!

The venue is in a fantastic location just within reach of Dublin. So not in the city but still far enough away that it can easily be reached.

We are promising a fantastic weekend, with great accommodation, food, drink, runs, games and much more!

The rego fee includes all of this. So why not sign up and join us in May 2017?!

The date is 12-14 May 2017.

Now you are wondering what the fee is?

Interview with Bad Dog: Reflections on 2500 runs with DC area hashes.

On February 19, 2017, hasher Bill "Bad Dog" Severe marked his 2,500th run with Washington, DC area hashes. A crowd of 300 hashers were on hand not only to help celebrate the occasion, but to celebrate the life of a their beloved friend nearing the end of his fight with cancer. In this interview, Bad Dog looks back on 21 years, which is as much about his love for his friends as it is for the sport that has been his passion.

Congratulations on 2,500 runs. What led you to hashing in the first place?

Well, a friend of mine, "Number Two," who runs with the local White House Hash, told me at a party that he had gotten into this activity known as "hashing." And I'd read an article about hashing in USA Today a few years before, but this was in the pre-internet era and you had to know the secret number to dial in order to know where the hash was, off a recording and all that stuff. A few months later, I'm driving up the street in Alexandria, Virginia, and I see a bunch of people running down the sidewalk and

Not a beer enthusiast, Bad Dog offers a toast with a large glass of milk.

Number Two is in the pack. So I stopped my car in the middle of the street because there was no traffic and I said, “Hey, Pete. What are you doing?” He said, “Come on and join us.” I was dressed in a suit and tie, but I only lived a few blocks away. He said, “Go home, get changed, meet us at this bar. You’ll have a great time.” And so I did. I came back the next week, which was Easter Sunday of 1996. I did the hash and had a great time. This crowd was right up my alley in terms of their antics, their songs and warped sense of humor. These were my kind of people, so I kept coming back.

Wasn't your start around the time of the Monica Lewinsky scandal?

Roughly. In fact, we did a run in which we all got in blue dresses with white spots all over them. We ran down to the courthouse where President Clinton was recording his deposition. All the television camera trucks were lined up along the curb. We ran out on the lawn of the courthouse, formed a group and sang hash songs in front of the TV trucks and they all filmed it. That was our contribution to the Monica Lewinsky scandal.

Pouring out his enthusiasm at the naming of a hasher.

Bad Dog reading a copy of “Hare of the Dog,” which he inherited from “Spinal Tap.”

How did you get the hash name Bad Dog?

I had several odd encounters with dogs on trail. And there were other things. For example, I'd ask a harriette out on a date and she'd say, “Down! Bad Dog! Play dead!” There was the time Cyclops had an allergic reaction to a bee sting and Mud Muffin was trying to hold her dog “Gunner,” whom we'd named “Gunnerrhea.” She was a medical student and she was trying to treat him at the same time, and a dog was a distraction. It was a medium-size German Shepherd. So I came running along when she said, “Bill, will you take my dog, and I'll meet you at the beer check.” Mud Muffin took Cyclops to her house in a taxi. So we went around the corner, and as soon as we were out of sight of Mud Muffin, the dog slammed on the brakes and wouldn't budge an inch. I'm tugging on his leash and he's backing up on all fours while other hashers are passing by and snickering. After 10 minutes, Gunnerrhea finally saw things my way and we went to the beer check. But the official story behind my name is that we were at a beer check for the White House Hash, and I knew there was a creek in the direction that I thought we might go, so I wandered off into the woods and Gunner followed me there. We got to the water and he got down into the creek bed the way dogs do and finally, after about 10 minutes, I thought we'd better get back or the pack will go without us. So I went back into the clearing with Gunner at my heels, and the story was that we'd disappeared into the woods together, and that when we came back, we both had grins on our faces and scratch marks on my back. Since I got my name, I've helped resuscitate four dogs that collapsed on trail from heat exhaustion.

2,500 Runs. What led you to count them all?

I originally took up hashing because it was a fun way for me to get exercise. Quite honestly, I hate running by myself. Watching grass grow is about as entertaining. But misery loves company. I loved the obstacle course nature of hash runs. We were doing swamps and creeks and swimming rivers and storm tunnels. Hell, this is so much more fun than regular running. I enjoyed it so much. I ran competitive track in high school and college [University of Delaware], and I figured it was a good way of getting back into shape. I started counting runs as a way of keeping score. I was never going to catch any of the FRBs with the highest run count in any of the hashes, but no one has tried to rack up the most hash runs for the aggregate total. I'll try to do that, and it will be a way to track my progress as to how much exercise I'm getting, how much distance I'm covering, how much progress I've made. I just wanted to get into better shape, so that's why I started keeping score for every hash I ran. My 2,500th run is also significant to me as my 10,000th mile with DC area hashes. That's 10,000 miles of cross-country everything. You name the obstacle and I've probably encountered it ... including the Mount Vernon Hash on Bastille Day with the runner at the head of the pack carrying a French Tricolore. We ran through Lorton Prison, which was still open for business back then.

That represents a lot of hash cash, doesn't it?

It goes out in small amounts so you don't notice it, but when you look back, you say, "Geez, that's a lot of money." Although, that's not as expensive as some of my other hobbies. This is a cheap way for me to get out and have fun. And there's always a hash, so if anything I'm planning to do gets canceled, I just go to the hash as a default backup.

Beyond the running, has camaraderie been a part of the motivation?

Hashing is the most fun I've ever had in a pair of sneakers. Absolutely. The camaraderie, the politically incorrect nature of the humor really attracts me. I don't have to watch what I say or do. If I dish it out, I just have to be prepared to take it. And I do. And God, I love these people! They've been such great friends over the past 21 years.

What kennels have you run with in the Washington DC area?

Well, the DC area has 18 kennels and I've run with 17 of them. The only one I haven't run with is Charm City; it's way up in Baltimore and I just haven't driven to Baltimore much. But I've run with the rest of them, because it gave me a chance to meet new people, experience new hashing terrain and have new adventures. There is a whole different dynamic to running with 200 people in downtown Washington, DC, than there is in running with 20 people in Frederick, Maryland. The show-off factor when you run with the Every Day is Wednesday Hash is, "Wow! Look at us!" Everything stops when we go rumbling by. We make our own crosswalks, our own stoplights. Everything stops. People look at us, wondering, "Who are these people and why aren't they in jail?" With the Frederick Hash, 20 people is a lot more intimate. We have the circle, the bar ... you know we could sit there, drink beer and just have a great time rehashing the run.

Of my 2,518 lifetime runs, only seven are outside the DC area, and six of those I hared for the New Haven Hazmat hashes. The only real travel hash I've ever done was when I went with "Rear Area Security" to Dayton, Ohio. That was the coldest hash I've ever run in my life. It was minus 30 degrees Fahrenheit that day and everything was just frozen solid. But I had a good time. The Dayton Hash, they were real singers. We sang hash songs for two hours in someone's garage.

Speaking of show-off factors, have you ever done the Red Dress Run?

Many times. In fact, immediately after 9/11, we started up on Capitol Hill and a police officer gave us permission to use a government parking lot. We started the run and came tearing up East Capitol Street towards the Capitol [U.S. Capitol building], and we detoured around the Capitol and down to the beer check, which is underneath a nearby highway. After we left the beer check, we were jogging past a local police station

Bad Dog with Silver Fox, who founded the Denver
Hash in 1982.

and a police officer pulls off to the side and steps onto the sidewalk, stopping the four of us. He said, "What are you people doing, are you fundraising?" And I said, "Yeah." And he said, "What for?" And I said, "For beer." He said, "And?" "That's it," I said. He said, "There's nothing else?" And I said "No," and he started laughing. He said, "I know a couple of rookie cops who are going to catch so much shit because they panicked, figuring you all were 'Reds' or anarchists, who are storming the Capitol and they tied up the airwaves for 10 minutes saying the Capitol was under attack."

Can you recount a favorite trail?

My favorite run was at a hash held at the height of Hurricane Isabel in 2003. The second and third followed by Hurricane Irene, and I think it was Hurricane Grace. Seventy-mile-per-hour winds, trees falling, mud slides, flooded creeks with the whole city shut down. Man, that was an adventure! The greatest hash I have ever done? Oh my God, I love hurricane and blizzard hashes. In fact, the only way the trail can get an A-plus rating on my Bad Dog's Trail Rating Scale is that adverse weather is involved. If it's a sunny day, the highest rating a hash can get in my book is an A.

There was a Full Moon Hash about 15 years ago in Baltimore that was hared by a harriette named "Well Drilled." As part of the hash, she had us run through the Inner Harbor and we got on to a water taxi big enough to hold all of us. As the water taxi started out for Fells Point where we were going to run some more, we started singing hash songs, one after another. The first mate and the captain were in tears, they were laughing so hard. The captain was at the helm, blocked off by a partition, so you had to sit up front on the starboard side to see what he was doing. We were in the middle of "What Do You Do with a Drunken Hasher?" when I saw his hands slide down to the radio mic and click it. He was broadcasting our singing to every water taxi in Baltimore Harbor, plus all their passengers. I saw him two weeks later just by coincidence in the same water taxi and I told him who I was. He said, "Oh yeah, you guys were great! We got together in a bar and all the captains were just howling with laughter. All their passengers loved it."

A crowd of 300 hashers cheered Bad Dog at his 2500th run.

What was your longest trail?

There was a White House trail on which I've gotten the most lost ever. Longest trail, 24 miles! Biodegradable paint that was supposed to disappear after three days. It's still there. The second longest was Fister Roboto's Super Stupid II ball-buster trail, which was 21 miles. Then there was the Virginia Interhash trail ... I came in at 7 a.m. after starting at 9 p.m. on a four-mile trail.

What trends have you noticed during your time in the hash?

The hashes don't sing as much as they used to. We used to go in and take over a bar and sing Glorious Victorious and all the associated songs, 100 verses each. We don't do that anymore. In fact, we don't sing in bars at all anymore, and I miss that. That was our trademark, if you will, when we'd go into a bar. When we went in and took over a bar, we ... would ... take ... over ... a bar! It was a good time.

Another trend is that the hashes don't travel as much anymore. In DC, the two largest hashes have gotten tied to the Metro system. Every run starts from a Metro stop. It used to be, for example, that a hash would travel as far north and west as Frederick and as far south as Fredericksburg in order to have a run. We'd see a lot more terrain and more varied adventures. You don't have that anymore. You have to go to hashes that run in that area in order to do that. But having said that, there were only seven hashes in DC, and now there are 18. I have no idea how we're able to support them all without one or more of them failing. But they haven't, and that's great.

We seem to be getting a lot of people hashing for the first time, which is great. I think one of our problems is retention. A lot of the hashes I've seen get between one and five percent of the people who ever come back. I think we need to do some things to up that percentage or else we might run into a problem. I've heard it said that hashing is a one-generational, two-generational or three-generational fad. I don't think that's true. I certainly hope that's not true. As it gets more numerous, maybe more people will find out about it and you'll have a snowball effect in terms of membership and participation. I talked to somebody yesterday who had never heard of hashing and yet she's an avid runner. She's going to check it out. But there's a lot of that. The Frederick Hash almost died. There were three months in a row when I showed up and I was the pack, and there'd be like three hares. But now the Frederick Hash is routinely hitting 20 people. It's taken them years to get there, but finally they have that critical mass.

Craft breweries and brew pubs have grown expansively in our area. Some of them have started their own running clubs. Are we missing an opportunity, and what do you say to people who might be attracted to them?

Well, if they are running clubs, they're not nearly as much fun as hashing is. They're not running to have fun and they're not getting out to the woods, the creeks and the fields. We have a lot more fun. And a lot more camaraderie because misery loves company.

Only adverse weather trails can merit an A-plus rating from Bad Dog.

What about beer at the hash?

If someone hands me a beer to do a "down-down," I'll honor tradition. But on my own, well, if I bought a six-pack a year for myself, that would be a lot. The only way I can tell the difference between light beer and dark beer is one is light and one is dark. Some people drink water at the hash, some people drink soda and some drink beer. You can drink whatever you want and aren't forced to drink beer.

Gene Fox, or "Silver Fox" is here. Your families go back a bit, right?

Gene graduated from Tokyo High School during the occupation of Japan with my mother in the same graduating class. Gene's father and my grandfather were assistant chiefs of staff to Gen. Douglas MacArthur. My grandfather was MacArthur's G1 at the same time Gene's father, Gen. Pat Fox, was MacArthur's G3, G3 being chief of operations, G1 being administration.

Granddad was commander of the Third Army during the Korean War when Gen. Omar Bradley was Army Chief of Staff and Gen. Matthew Ridgeway commanding the Eighth Army. They were all from Missouri. He used to be Gen. Maxwell Taylor's commanding officer. He knew Gen. Jacob Devers. Over the years they would be dinner guests and I got to know them quite well. They called me "Billy" and I knew them as "General." They taught me how to hit golf balls, cast fishing lines and stuff like that. I had an unusual childhood, but I didn't even know it. I just thought they – including Gene's father -- were nice, elderly gentlemen who were friends with my grandfather.

Getting back to your 2,500th Run, were you surprised to see that 300 people there?

When we drove up to the start of the White House Hash at 3 p.m., I saw a sea of people and my reaction was, "Holy shit! Look at all the people! Where did they all come from?" I was astonished, speechless, choked up ... I can't even articulate what I felt. I was so moved by the fact that so many people took the time, money and effort to come to the hash and the party. I can't say how grateful I am to have friends like that and how honored I am that they would consider me worthy of their friendship. There were people I haven't seen in years. They've given me so much love and support, especially over the past couple of months when I've really needed it. I cannot say enough how much I love these people.

KOREA

- A REFRESHING HASHING EXPERIENCE

Hanyang Hash House Harriers & Harriettes (H5) of Korea is proud to offer itself as host of Pan Asia Hash 2017. The fact that there has never been any large scale hashing event in Korea means that, for most of the prospective participants, this Pan Asia will be a very refreshing hashing experience indeed.

We specifically chose Sokcho City as the event venue: on the fringe of this city is the world-renowned Seorak Mountain National Park which, for many Korean soap opera aficionados, has often been the surreal backdrop. The proposed dates are similarly selected, for late October ushers in the most spectacular autumnal colours, best highlighted by the rainbow hues of the maples.

Participants will get to savour the K-food phenomenon that has been taking the gastronomic world literally by storm. Be enamored by the extensive spread of Korean delights - the quintessential Ginseng Chicken Soup; the omnipresent mouth-watering beef, lamb, and pork barbecues; the huge varieties of fresh – and often live - seafood eaten either raw/sashimi-style, or prepared in dozens of off-secret recipes unbeknownst to other parts of the world. All these, and more, washed down with world famous brands of beers, or with the uniquely Korean soju and makgoeli.

The time is ripe for a refreshing change of scenery, of style, of food and beverage, and of a completely new hashing experience. We are a new troupe of organizers, backed by the provincial government, and supported by experience from the Motherland of hashing.

Give your affirmation for a refreshing change!

KOREA - THE VENUE OF CHOICE

- ACCESSIBLE – round trip as low as USD200-250 from most SE Asian cities
- AFFORDABLE – conveniently located rooms could be had for as little as USD35-40
- ASTHETIC – be enchanted by autumn at its full fall colours
- VIRGINAL – hash in assuredly hitherto never-before-hashed territory
- GOVERNMENT-BACKED – the provincial government is enthusiastically supportive
- GASTRONOMIC – pamper your sensory glands with inimitable K-flavours
- INTOXICATING – infuse yourself with the full range of uniquely Korean beverages
- COMFORTABLE – experience hashing in low-humidity at temperatures in the mid-teens
- ENTERTAINING - revel in live K-pop performances and cultural shows
- PERFECTION – enjoy the Koreans' relentless strive for perfection!

The Philippine National Hash weekend of – already we have registrations form (the cut of date is 20TH April 2017) and we Sunday Hashers.

19TH to 21ST May 2017 is drawing closer. close to 40 Hashers from outside Cebu expect at least 30 from our regular Cebu

We hope to attract up to 150 Hashers so there is still time for you to join in the fun and be ON ON in Cebu.

There will be a mix of “no sweat, “walk in the park” Runs; medium Runs and, if not exactly ball breakers”, more challenging Runs. Rest assured, plenty of San Miguel beers will be readily available.

The Friday Runs (19TH May)

These will be closer to the city and the “Hike” will take you up, over and along a ridge that is too steep for anyone to build on. The Hike finishes at a ridge top village that is also the start for the walkers’ Run.- a short, not too difficult, wooded walk to and from a waterfall. Both Runs will finish in time to get back for the free flowing beer Meet & Greet session. For those interested, a pub crawl will follow (buy your own for that I’m afraid).

The Saturday Runs (20TH May)

These will be at the Kan Irag Nature Park around 15 uphill km outside the City. Yes, we used the same area for our 1,000TH Run but it is big enough and open enough for a multitude of different trails.

The Walkers’ Trail will be a short jaunt to enjoy the views from a colourful flower farm. For the more energetic there will be a shortish trail around the surrounding countryside without too many obstacles. For the FRB superheroes, an almost “ball buster” trail of around 12km will be available. See also https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Kan-irag_Nature_Park for details about the area.

The Sunday Runs

There will be two; one will be a simple, medium length “recovery run” while the other will be set with FRB’s in mind. They will be to the north of the City in a coastal area called Tayud which is partly in Consolacion and also Liloan. Both runs will start and finish at the poolside of a sub-division clubhouse.

Saturday & Sunday Parties, On Ons, etc

Free beer will be available at the end of all runs before moving on for more. To get more beer and grub for your Buck, we are holding the Saturday/Sunday circles & bashes in sub-division clubhouses.

The 2017 Philippine Nash Hash over May 19TH to 21ST

Follow the links on <http://cebuhash.org/index.php>

FEE – P4,500 per Hasher

ONLY PHILIPPINE PESO PAYMENTS ACCEPTED

Some Hashers have reported problems with our PayPal payment link. If you do not have a PayPal account, the link also allows you to pay by credit card. Should even that give you a problem, send an e <mailto:cebuhash@gmail.com> and we can sort out a suitable alternative. Remember that the final cut off date is 20TH April 2017.

For those able to pay in cash in Cebu there will be a discount – Peso 4,000 in cash payable to Dribbles Weekly no later than 28TH February 2017. NOTE – cash payments must be in Philippine bank notes direct to our Hash Cash (Dribbles Weekly) and handed over here in Cebu BEFORE the 28/2/17 cut off date.

NB – Regardless of payment method, everyone must complete the online rego form so that we know T-shirt sizes and other preferences. Separate forms & payments for each Hasher.

HOTELS Cebu City itself has many upmarket (expensive) hotels and a wide variety of lower cost (but OK) places to stay at. Those located along Gov Quenco Avenue and A.S. Fortuna Street are the best placed for access to our pick up point. We suggest you use an online booking service and search for hotels in vicinity of Banilad Town Center, Cebu, Philippines. We do not recommend staying on Mactan Island (Lapu Lapu) over a Hash weekend.

Frontera's Sizzling Fajitas

It was 1973 in Houston, Texas on Navigation street where a young tejanita named Hinta first popularized the famous Tex-Mex dish now known as "fajitas".

We pay homage to Mama Hinta everyday by making our fajitas the traditional way. Marinated overnight in Frontera's proprietary blend of authentic Tex-Mex spices and served sizzling hot with a stack of fresh house-made tortillas.

Emergency Crews Suffer Smoke Inhalation At Cannabis Factory Blaze

Emergency services were treated for chronic smoke inhalation after a blaze at an illegal cannabis factory in Ipswich last month.

More than 30 firefighters, 22 police officers, seven paramedics and two members of the lifeboat service were all treated for inhaling fumes as more than 3,000 cannabis plants went up in smoke.

One brave police officer was detained in hospital after dashing back into the smouldering building 17 times, just to check no one was trapped inside.

He told startled medics he was "absolutely starving" and demanded some crisps and chocolate immediately.

A member of staff in the accident and emergency department at Ipswich Hospital said: "The poor man had the munchies and was talking complete gibberish very fast. And he kept laughing at everything."

Fire crews were first called to a house on Woodbridge Road at 7.30pm yesterday when neighbours reported a blaze in the attic of a house.

Firefighters established the building was being used as a cannabis factory, and despite the drama, were extremely relaxed having discarded their breathing apparatus while they brought the flames under control.

A police spokesman said: "We were called to a blaze in a house in Ipswich at 7.30pm. The building was being used as a cannabis factory. Several officers suffered from the effects of smoke inhalation, and one officer was detained in hospital.

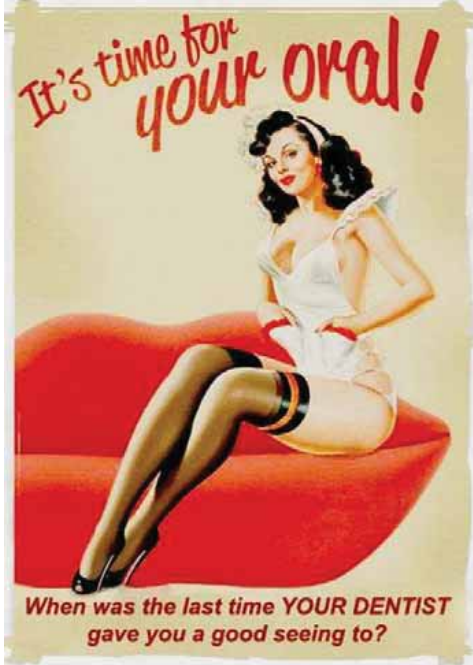

"With no regard for his personal safety, he had gone into the building 17 times."

The spokesman added that the blaze was quite dramatic, and emergency services had pulled together. "It was great teamwork. Several ambulance services arrived on the scene some from as far as Essex and Norfolk.

Even the lifeboat service turned up to help out – despite the house being 11 miles from the coast."

Three people were arrested on suspicion of growing cannabis with the intention of supplying.

A CLOSE SHAVE ON-LINE

It's a complete lottery, and it seems almost everyone has got a horror story of unnecessary packaging or a sudden recycling conundrum

So it's refreshing to see that, for once, an item bought online arrived in a very suitable, sensible box.

Yes, there's absolutely nothing unusual here.

Mick Wright, of Cleethorpes, Lincolnshire, made what he thought was a routine order of razor blades.

So when he came home to a note letting him know a parcel had been left with a neighbour, he was understandably confused.

He was taken aback when he finally laid eyes on the 5ft box, and even more so when he realised what was inside.

Mick joked: 'Perhaps the packer misread the label... the blades were for a Wilkinson Sword razor, not Excalibur.'

Rather than King Arthur's weapon, the contents were in fact a tiny pack of razor blades.

He added: 'It was ridiculous – but to be fair, they did give me recycling details on how to dispose of the large box.'

BRITISH PARLIAMENT TO ACT

Parliament enters 310th consecutive year of insisting it's going to tackle wealthy tax avoiders
 MPs have promised to tackle tax avoidance by Britain's wealthiest people for the 310th year running.

Promising to do something while using words like 'determined' and 'tough' has been the strategy of successive governments since Parliament was formed, but now MPs insist they're definitely committed to a fairer system.

"We're determined to get tough on wealthy tax avoiders," said a government spokesperson.

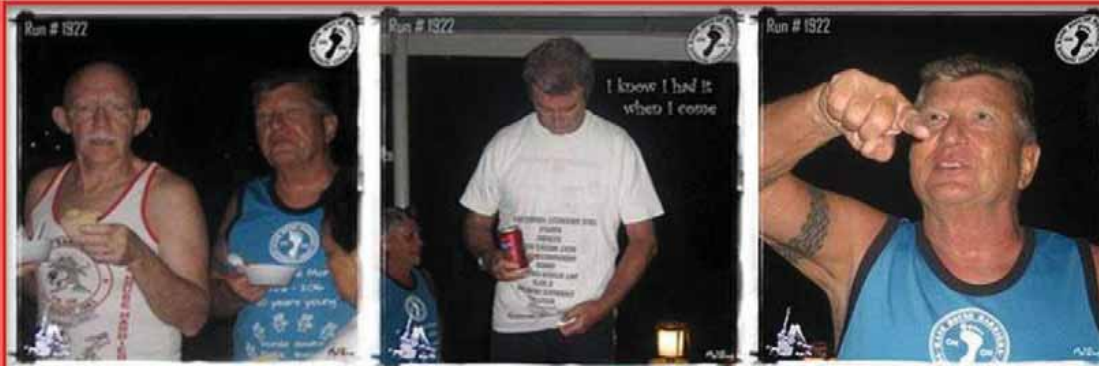

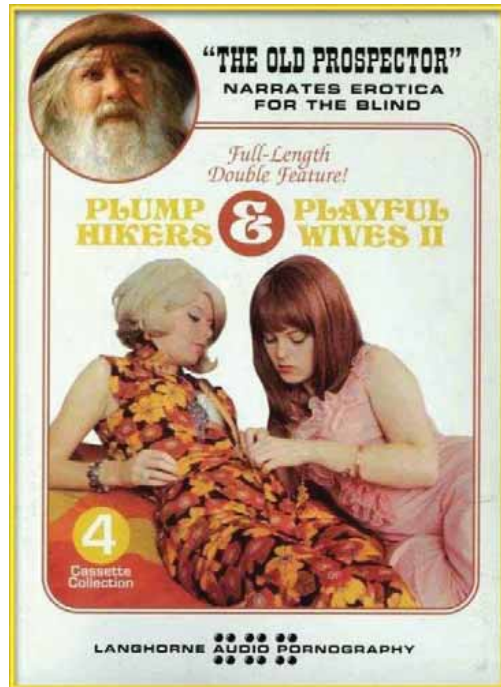

"We've already committed to producing more scathing reports that feature words such as 'unacceptable' and 'crackdown'.

"If you're wealthy and not paying your fair share of tax then be in no doubt we won't hesitate to describe you as morally wrong.

"No previous government has done more than this one to create the illusion something is being done."

SUNSHINE COAST HASH RUN 1922

Having arrived in OZ a few days previously Red Horse & myself made our ways to the Monday SCH3 Run near Mt Cooloolm. Heavy rain was on horizon but with luck we managed to get round without being soaked but this more to do with the trail being so tremendously short than anything else. However there was a sooty loop after the drink stop for those who wished and I was about to delve into the burnt out bush but was pulled back by Red Horse who had other ideas about keeping ourselves free and clean of the charcoaled wood. At the circle we were entertained by the usual SCH degenerates and we were both invited to a DD as being visiting Vikings at the same time being entertained by a theatre of lightning from the distant mountain range and it hardly rained at all even so the sky was as black and foreboding as hell!! Hare for the day, a certain 'Weekas' was given a DD for not having beetroot on the menu for Red Horse.

MANCHESTER UNITED LEAVING PREMIER LEAGUE

Manchester United have announced they are leaving the English Premier League to concentrate on consolidating their position at the top of the Deloitte Football Money League.

The recently crowned Deloitte Football Money League champions said they were leaving the 'small potatoes' Premier League to focus on the more lucrative business of making money.

Manager Jose Mourinho said, "It's nice for Manchester United to finish top of a league for a change, even though this one is nothing to do with kicking a ball.

"Football has become less and less about football since the advent of the Premier League, and finally we've made the logical decision to take the actual sports bit out of the equation – this makes a lot of sense for this football club, at this time.

"It also means we can get rid of the biggest waste of money in our business – footballers.

"We've made more money than any other club in the world but think how much we would have made if we didn't have to pay the likes of Pogba, Fellaini and Rooney hundreds of thousands a week to wander around the pitch looking bored."

Supporter Simon Williams, a season ticket holder since before he was born and wearing all three of this week's new replica jerseys, said, "This is the natural, organic step forward for this club.

"For too long we, as loyal and devoted football fans, have had to put up with our 'results' being entirely down to unreliable players. "Now, we're safe in the knowledge that each Saturday we can turn up, sit in our seats and watch the cash registers spin as the money flows in.

"The cheer as we pass each million will be much louder and more satisfying than watching us fight out a disappointing one-all against a Burnley team who have parked the bus." Arsenal, Liverpool and Man City fans have shown their support by agreeing this course of action is indeed in the best interests of the game.

FAT CONTROLLER TO TAKE OVER AT SOUTHERN RAIL

A stout animatronic wooden cartoon man has been brought in to improve service in a major shakeup at Southern Rail.

Sir Topham Hatt, who has extensive experience in business dating back to his days as chief executive of British Leyland in the 1970s, has been compared very favourably to the current management of the railway – who he has proposed be bricked up in a tunnel to teach them a lesson.

Hatt has been involved in many major projects, including GNER, Hinckley Point Nuclear Power Station, the BHS pension scheme, Rover Cars, and British Rail before privatisation, which sources say makes him substantially better qualified than the current shower.

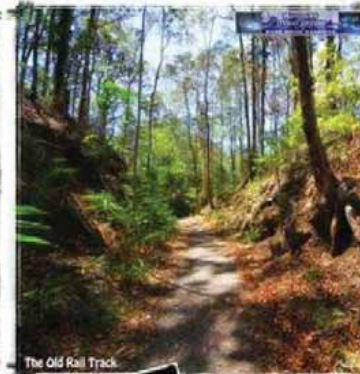

Hatt's time at British Rail ended when he was given a Baronetcy in return for him going away without a fuss by the Wilson government in 1976.

His first move has been to announce that any train which is more than ten minutes late will be sternly told off and sent to bed without any supper, and to replace train guards with static dolls – which have been shown to be more reliable and friendly to customers, and spend less time on strike.

Southern Rail customers have already praised his appointment, saying that the new company livery of large, smiling faces on the front of all the trains has made the interminable waiting much more enjoyable.

Accompanied by the deafening roar of hundreds if not thousands of ear piercing cicadas.

Wong Way did a grand job of laying an interesting trail following the track that was disbanded in 1936 after 21 years service

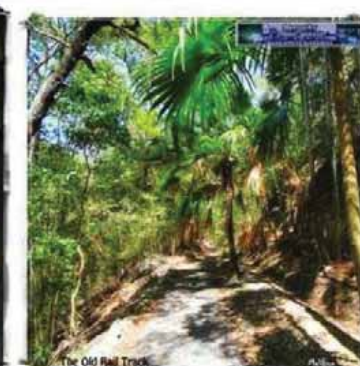

Following the track downhill to about the half way mark we were entertained by a satisfying and well awaited drinks stop

Melania Trump Receives Oscar Nomination For Role As Devoted Wife Of Total Shit

Melania Trump has received her first Oscar nomination for her role as a loving wife to an odious part-man part-satsuma oaf in the acclaimed film, Fuck me, how is this real life?

Critics marvelled at the Slovenian model's ability to put up with the endless torrent of shit her co-star has put her through over the last 18 months.

Academy member, Simon Williams, said, "It's well known that Trump went through a couple of alternatives before casting Melania, but she has proven to be well worth the wait.

"There have been so many occasions when others would have broken character and just walked away.

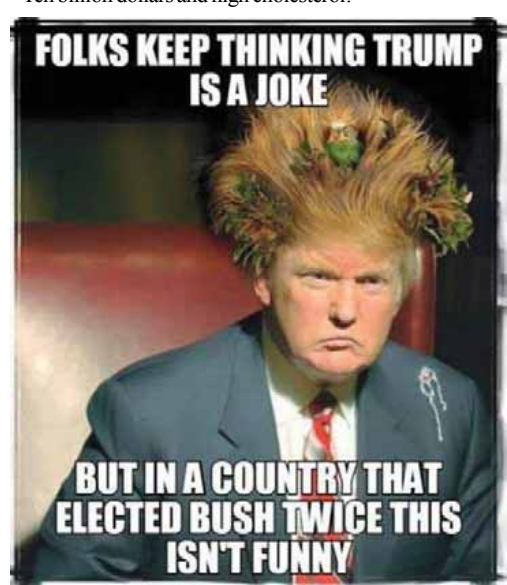

"The grabbing pussies moment, mocking the disabled and so on, but beyond that just having to spend any length of time with Donald Trump and still being able to produce a smile is remarkable.

"Streep wouldn't have been able to get through one take, I guarantee it.

"Fuck me, this is real life is a terrifying piece of work that could have been even more horrific, but thankfully the film board said they had to cut the sex scenes for the theatrical release.

"Though sources tell me they kept them for the Russian version."

So what does Melania see in Donald Trump?
"Ten billion dollars and high cholesterol!"

President Trump Invited The Pope For Lunch On His Mega Yacht

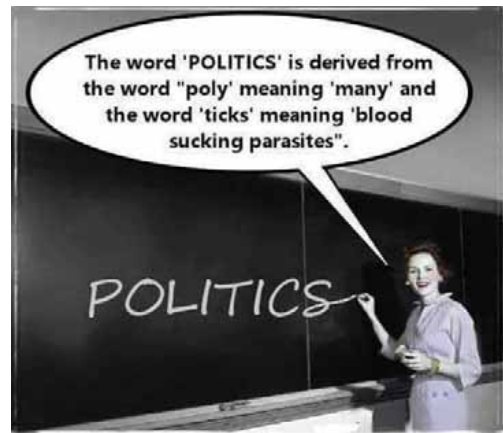

The Pope accepted and during lunch, a puff of wind blew the Pontiff's hat off, right into the water.

It floated off about 50 feet, then the wind died down and it just floated in place. The crew and the secret service were scrambling to launch a boat to go get it, when Trump waved them off, saying "Never mind, boys, I'll get it."

The Donald climbed over the side of the yacht, walked on the water to the hat, picked it up, walked back on the water, climbed onto the yacht, and handed the Pope his hat.

The crew was speechless. The security team and the Pope's entourage were speechless. No one knew what to say, not even the Pope. But that afternoon, NBC, CBS, ABC, MSNBC, CNN all knew how to cover the story.

Their banner headlines read: - "TRUMP CAN'T SWIM"

Donald Trumps Wake When Donald Trump died, an elaborate wake was planned. In preparation, Mrs. Trump called the undertaker aside for a private little talk. "Please be sure to secure his toupee to his head very securely. No one but I knew he was bald," she confided, "and he'd never rest in peace if anyone found out at this point. Our friends from the old country are sure to hold his hands and touch his head before they're through paying their last respects." "Rest assured, Mrs. Trump," comforted the undertaker. "I'll fix it so that toupee will never come off."

Sure enough, the day of the wake the old timers were giving Donald's ancient corpse quite a going over, but the toupee stayed firmly in place. At the end of the day, a delighted Mrs. Trump offered the undertaker an extra thousand dollars for handling the matter so professionally.

"Oh, I couldn't possibly accept your money," protested the undertaker. "What's a few nails?"

SCH3 HASH RUN REPORT - RUN NUMBER 1923, 20 FEB 2017 HARED BY PONTIUS THE PILOT @ MOOLOOLAH BONE YARD

Arriving at the cemetery gates, we were greeted by Pontius who promised a trail with some virgin trail and not a single hill.

He was right in both regards ... there was some virgin trail, and there was not a single hill. There were effing loads of them.

Off we went under to directions of Pontius and almost immediately, Sir Malibog did a "CNUT UP", it was a shame that only a couple of hashers saw his efforts, but those who did certainly had a good laugh.

From the start there were a couple of checks and a small group of front markers soon found themselves at the back of the pack. I was one of them and was most grateful as that meant I was on hand to see Sir Malibog do his acrobatics.

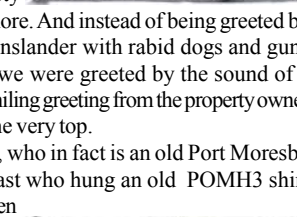

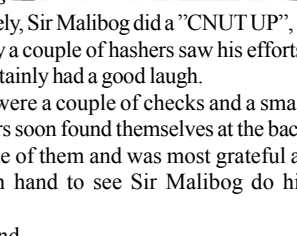

The trail wound around and very soon we found ourselves climbing up the side of the hill. Up and UP we went. And then some more. Just when we thought we'd reached the top, around the next bend it was more of the same. UP.

And then we entered some private property and it was up some more. And instead of being greeted by some red neck Queenslander with rabid dogs and guns protecting his land, we were greeted by the sound of a Claxton Hom and a smiling greeting from the property owner at his homestead at the very top.

A really decent chap, who in fact is an old Port Moresby hasher from times past who hung an old POMH3 shirt from 1975 on his beaten old truck.

Malibog stopped and had a chat, as Malibog actually ran with Port Moresby hash way back in 1977.

But that was a couple of years after a new friend had already left, but there were general reminiscences afoot.

From here the general direction was down. Not surprising really as we were on the top of the hill. We seriously couldn't go any higher.

Past some little holiday cabins and a sharp left along a really good trail. From here your scribe was anxious to move as quickly as possible as he was without a torch. What a decent chap Malibog is, as he gave his torch to Dragon Lady at the start when he discovered her torch was not working!

Downwards the trail went and as it got darker the trail got a little bit more overgrown, and then Malibog's feet hit a tree root and whilst in full flight he took a cropper. Kermit the Cane Toad and Felcher were on hand to witness this remarkable feat and Felcher was so impressed he described it as a one and a half pike from a moving position. I believe he awarded it a perfect TEN for artistic merit.

This trio of Malibog, Felcher and Kermit continued on trail and started climbing again until the FROG declared that were had been on this particular part of the trail earlier. YUP, we had made a wrong turn and it looked like we were doing a lap of honour. Down we came and we bumped into Red Horse and found the right trail and very soon, we found the Drink Stop.

Pontius greeted us with some duty free Cane Cutter Cordial, and just perfect that was too.

We waited for the rest of the pack, until someone asked where the other Malibog might be ... The titled Viking Malibog ... Until someone spied him walking along the other side of the road in our general direction.

Living up to his Sunshine Coast hash reputation, Sir Malibog took a wrong turning after stopping for a chat with the Ex POM hasher, and then took another wrong turn, followed by another, and then found himself on the main Bruce Highway.

After much ridicule, he enjoyed the Bundie and from there a short walk back to the On Home where the usual nonsense prevailed. A well planned and executed run Pontius. And "Gudpella KaiKai istap long pinis"

And that was it..... OnOnMaliBog-Kalbo

THIS UNSPORTING WORLD

SPORTS PERSONALITY OF THE YEAR

Fifa has indicated that the row over England and Scotland players wearing poppies on their kit could be ended in recompense for a 'gift' of €100,000 in untraceable used bank notes. €100k in used notes might make poppies less political, say FIFA

"FIFA is committed to a new era without corruption," said FIFA head Gianni 'Razors' Infantino.

"As such, we would never suggest any sort of bribe. However, if these guys, these British Legion guys, if they were to offer a small financial gesture of friendship, then perhaps we would be able to forget the political implications of wearing a symbol of remembrance and the whole situation could be resolved without any need for... unpleasantness."

The row began after FIFA refused permission for the England and Scotland players to wear a poppy symbol on their shirts because, unlike the Nike or Puma logos, there is literally no money in it.

"I looked into it," continued Don Infantino.

"These poppy guys brought in over a mil last year, and that's pure untaxed profit. Now we ain't asking for much over here, just a taste is all. A gesture. But in Euros, none of that worthless Sterling rubbish.

Although negotiations are currently amicable, there were indications that things could become less so.

"Hey, we're all friends here but if, you know, if we can't all get along," said Mr Infantino with a smile that didn't quite reach his eyes.

"We're going to have to make them an offer they can't refuse."

You'd also take a lot of drugs if you lived here, claim Russian athletes

Russian athletes have confirmed that if you lived in Russia, you'd take shitloads of drugs too.

Responding to allegations of substantial doping in the Olympic team, athletes denied the substances were performance-enhancing and said they were just what you need to get through another day in Sverdlovsk.

Athletes drew comparisons with living in Birmingham, saying that most people there need substantial doses of skag to cope and Russia is like that, only without the charm, lovely people and attractive architecture.

When asked if that was the Russian sense of humour they just looked stoically blank and took another swig of vodka. "Yes, we take a lot of Billy Whizz – or Billski Whizz as we call it here," said shotputter Simonov Williamsovitch.

"But the only thing that it makes fly by is the days, not the runners.

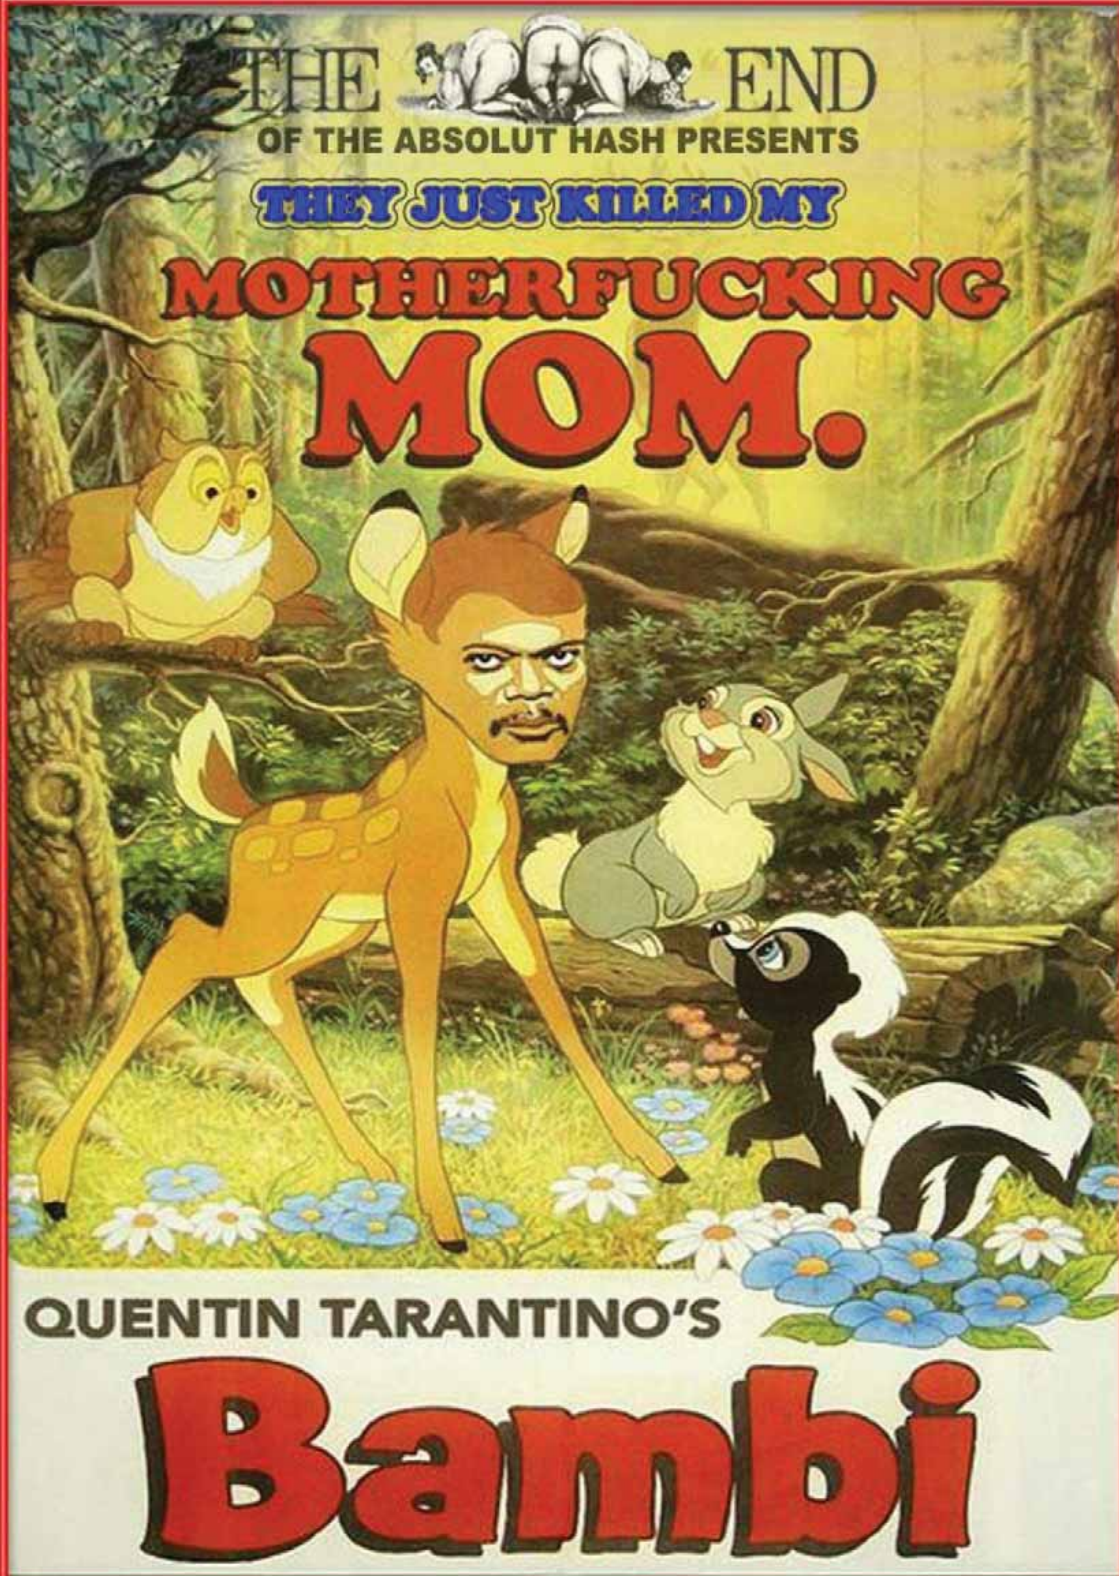

"And five grams of high-grade crack is the only way I could believe anything broadcast on Russia Today."

The Kremlin has responded angrily to the allegations of doping by athletes, pointing out that if they took as many drugs as claimed there's no way they'd be so far down the medals table these days.

Fines for wearing poppies

England	£35,000
Scotland	£15,700
