Interhash 2020

Across the Caribbean the excitement grows, as news of the World Interhash coming to the region spreads. From Jamaica to Barbados, down the Caribbean chain, hashers across the region are thrilled that the World Interhash is coming to Trinidad.

None are more excited than Trinidad's sister isle, Tobago, where hashers are already putting together packages for her Pre and Post Lube visitors, which include a run through the oldest Forest Reserve in the Western Hemisphere, The Main Ridge.

Established in 1776, The Main Ridge is the spine of the small island, running 75% of the island's length, covered in virgin forest, with some of the oldest trees anywhere. Many of these old trees are themselves stars in the local folklore; ask any local about the tale of Gangang Sarah, the north African witch, who flew in to Tobago on a wind and was grounded on the island.

Whereas Trinidad is the larger, more energetic of the twin islands, Tobago is positioned as 'Clean, Green and Serene', and home to only 75,000 people of the 1.4 Mil population of the entire country. Blessed with some of the most beautiful scenery, Tobago boasts the only Barrier Reef in the Caribbean- The Buccoo Reef, the Largest Brain Coral in the world, the Main Ridge, the Black Coral forest and some other secret places to explore.

Only 11 miles off of the South American continent, both islands enjoy some of the best deep sea fishing in the Caribbean, with prize catches of Blue Marlin "Granders", Dolphin Fish, (Mahi)

Mahi), Wahoo, year round Tarpon and others. If you are up for adventure you can expect packages of Deep Sea fishing, Sailing, Scuba Diving, Hiking, Kite Boarding, Wind Surfing, Stand-up Paddling, and Mountain Bike riding, or if you are more interested in 'Chillin or Liming' you can choose to play Golf or visit the many waterfalls or just chill on the beautiful beaches, bath in the Nylon Pool or sip more than a few cold ones in the local bars.

Accommodation on the islands range from Hotels, Guest Houses, Airbnb and privately rented Villas, including those with private bays of their own, which can sleep up to 12 persons in most cases, offering visitors many reasonable options.

Access to Tobago is easy, with 4 daily ferry crossings, as well as daily flights every 45 min from Trinidad to Tobago's ANR Robinson International Airport.

For those hashers wishing to explore the Caribbean Basin, all our neighbouring islands are uniquely beautiful with their own Caribbean pace, but in this writer's personal view, that after the action of Trinidad, you can't leave the region without sailing a few days in the spectacular waters of the Grenadines.

Editor's Notes

The 80th Anniversary of the Hash House Harriers was a true gathering of HHH clans from around the world. To commemorate this auspicious event, 2000 hashers traveled to Kuala Lumpur to participate in a glorious week of trails and celebrations. Our well seasoned HHH event reviewer, CIA, flew in from Houston to take part. Agree or disagree with his views; this writer has been to more HHH events than most, and has years of experience reviewing these events. Quick Drawers weaves a "Tale of Two Trails" recounting some of the Mother Hash trails. Bushdiver was on trail in KL too, with his hardcore take on Hashing in Malaysia - where the Hash House Harriers began in 1938.

What's colder than a witch's tit in a bronze bra on the shady side of an iceberg? The "No Wimps Trail" in Minneapolis, Minnesota each January is cooler than cool. Even if you think you are already cool, you haven't achieved true coolness until you do this one. Don't be a wimp, join in the fun and be really cool!

Calling all Scotsmen, fair lassies, and anyone who dons a kilt and enjoys a wee dram of liquid heaven every now and then. Word to the wise is that La Union in the Philippines is the place to be on the first of December for the annual Haggis Bash. Breakout the bagpipes and let The Games begin. Just good clean fun with the slight possibility of a hangover in the morning.

From the jungles of Malaysia to snow capped peaks in the Land of the Rising Sun, you can't keep a good hasher down. Bushdiver Head Mistress set off for Zambia in search of lions and tigers and crocodiles. What did she find at the 2000th running of the Lusaka Hash House Harriers? Read all about her latest African adventure.

Mijas, in Southern Spain, will celebrate 30 years of hashing this May. So dust off your sombrero and get ready for the best reason to go to Spain in the last 30 years, and maybe the next 30 years too.

I look forward to seeing you on trail soon. On On!

Gates had over 2000 R*ns with the Wessex Hash, a veteran of Inter Hashes and Marathons including six London alone. He attended his first IH in Bali 1988. A gentleman with plenty of antidotes, humour and love of life in general. Also a bit of a 'Steptoe & Son' who was once found extracting a five bar gate and carrying it back to the Après for four miles...Well, it was only going to waste and was laying there!

He died peacefully at home with his family all around, and will be sorely missed in the hashing fraternity.

No Wimps Trail

by Crotch Thumper

What's cooler than being cool? This ice cold "No Wimps" trail with the "Coolest Kennel" in the United States, the Minneapolis H3! The No Wimps Trail is a half-marathon of booze and wool-layered debauchery done in the middle of winter through beautiful, frost-bitten shiggy. Have no fear Wimps, there is always a Zippy Trail for the (walking) Wimps. This is Minneapolis H3's biggest trail of the year, and we'll see you there on 19 January 2019. All this frigid fun is only $10 hash cash!

The hare for No Wimps hash: Magically Delicious

Crotch Thumper, Lotion, Sex and Ate, and Buster are bundled up... and drop out of this cold event at checkpoints 1 & 2.

The hares explain the snowy trail marks.

Magically Delicious is not thwarted by the cold.

Long, Cold, and Hard

The No Wimps trail began 27 years ago in greater Minneapolis, and now welcomes serious revelers and ambitious athletes to a tit-bit-nippy 10 to 12 mile frolic up and down the scenic Minnesota River bluffs—and that’s just true trail. There are several checkpoints along the way to hydrate with a variety of themed beverages, a chance to check your gear and keep things dangerous, and to swap clothing as you warm up and the day cools down.

At any of these checkpoints, you can choose to continue your frosty challenge or you can be rescued and spirited away to the Wimps Trail, which is inside the Mall of America.

Dedicated indoor athletes and retail hounds know the Mall of America as one of the top tourist destinations in the country, featuring 330 stores, a stadium, a giant roller coaster, and other oddities to baffle your half-mind. The Wimps Trail will be laid within, using deviously hidden trail marks so as not to concern the security guards or panic the muggles.

This trail has taken up to four hours to complete before, which is plenty of time to live great stories you immediately regret. We’ll circle up afterward at a secret on-in location where everyone gathers to share stories and honor those who have finished trial...and nominate heroes, villains, and wimps, for down-downs!

Mr. Ed and Ms. Ed are the heart of the No Wimps hash and will melt the coldest of hearts with their hashpitality.

The hashers who Wimp out of the cold trail get sent to the Mall of Americas with an indoor trail lled with warmth and many beer checks.

Cougar Bait and Puts the Tanning Lotion in the Basket choose from the multitude of stores in the fully indoor Wimps trail.

I absolutely loved Minneapolis H3's hashpitality when I attended their 2018 No Wimps trail. Mr. Ed and Mrs. Ed, who you may have gotten to know through their world hash travels, are absolutely a joy to be around with their many years of hashing. Plunder their memories of your favorite destination hashes, and you'll probably find that you've crossed trails with this nearly-famous duo!

The No Wimps trail is marked with bright tape in the trees and bushes about a week before the actual event. This is because it would be too easy to follow a hare's footprints in the snow! I wimped out at checkpoint #2 which was about five miles into a trail with 10" (25.4 cm) of snow—after defeating creeks, shigg fields, and climbing frozen rock faces!

Part of the trail involved climbing a frozen waterfall with a height of 60' (18.3 meters), which became a team building activity as some hashers had low-tread road running shoes. At its height, there was a human ladder of eight harriettes helping one unprepared hasher. It took about 25 minutes to get this hasher to the top, but we celebrated with high fives and honor down-downs for making sure that no hasher was left behind.

While you are in Minnesota for this event, there is a pre-lube on Thursday as they hold the Twin Titty Thursday H3. Friday is Drinking Practice or pay-as-you-go Pub Crawl, and then No Wimps kicks off at on Saturday!

CIA REVIEWS

Mother Hash

by CIA

As most hashers should know, the hash got started in 1938 in Kuala Lumpur (KL), Malaysia by a group of British expats. Eighty years later, the hash has spread like an STD and has infected the world.

To celebrate this achievement, if that's the right word, the mother hash, decided to host an anniversary party. It's not the first time they have done this. They did one five years ago for the 75th anniversary. Before that, they had a celebration in 1998 which was also world interhash.

I attended the one in 1998 which was held at Merdeka stadium, the same venue for the 75th anniversary and the current one. In 1998, they said that the interhash would be the last event held at the stadium as it was scheduled to be torn down. Well, they lied! Twenty years later, it looks just like it did back then.

It's actually a great venue for a hash event. The stage was erected on the pitch. We had cover in the stands in the event of rain. Also working proper toilets, not portable toilets. The stadium is also adjacent to a monorail station so it's easily accessed from anywhere in KL.

For lots of folks, this was their first time hashing in Asia. I think it was a bit of a culture shock!

1) What are the themes for this event? they asked..

Response: what are themes? This is mother hash. We don't do that shit.

2) How come you guys don't have hash names?

Response: because that's how it is in mother hash

3) Why don't you allow women on the mother hash?

Response: that's how the hash got started and we aren't changing. But we are organizing this weekend where women are allowed. But the Monday hash is still men only.

4) Why no beer stops?

Response: Beer is at the end of the run, not the middle. But we do provide water stops.

5) Your runs are way too tough!

Response: Stop your whining. This is a hilly place and we run in the jungle. Suck it up, buttercup!

To summarize, mother hash is old school hashing, like it was 60 years ago.

Has your grandmother changed with the times? Yeah, I'm talking about the one who still has a flip phone and refuses to use facebook. Well, that's how mother hash is.

Mother hash is cool because it doesn't give a fuck about being cool!

All that being said, I thought mother hash did a damn good job organizing this shitshow.

There was plenty of food every night at the stadium. Queues weren't that bad and they didn't run out of food. It was mostly Malay and Chinese food but that was fine with me.

There was plenty of beer. It was mostly tiger.

The goody bag we got was great. We got 3 different shirts: a singlet, a dress polo shirt, and a cotton polo shirt. All of them were of good quality and design. We got hash Shiggy socks. We got a towel. We even got a backpack but it looked to be a kids backpack. The shoulder straps were way too short. That item remained at the hotel. We also got a glass jar from Tiger brewery. It was large and heavy with no handle. That also remained at the hotel. We also got a small info booklet, a magazine, and a patch.

Entertainment was outstanding. We had an all female band playing all three nights. My only comment was they were way too loud. But they were very good. We also had an acrobatic group that did a dragon show on stilts. It was like something out of cirque du soleil. I've never seen anything like that at a hash event. If you weren't there, watch the videos that have been posted on this act. It's hard to describe in words.

As for the runs, the descriptions didn't match the level of difficulty. They were all tough, except the one that started from the stadium.

Bus queues were done on the pitch. We had to stand there in the hot sun for almost an hour before boarding the buses. That could have been handled better.

I went on run D on Saturday which was at agropark. It was advertised as having an old farts option which turned out to be fake news. Lots of old farts turned out for this run only to find out the trail went up a steep hill, down a very slippery slope and then up an even steeper hill. Those foolish enough to do it were really pissed off. A good bunch of us though went out about a kilometer where it was still flat, then found a swimming hole, and returned the way we came. So no problem for us!

Circle didn't really happen as people came in from trail slowly and looking like they had been to hell and back.

It started raining buckets so we tried to huddle under some makeshift tarpaulin. When the rain finally let up, we hiked back to the buses which were a way down the road. So no circle. No one was really in the mood.

The terrain was quite nice and featured a stream but it was a tough trail. We heard similar comments about the other trails when we got back to the venue.

Obligatory rant: It's not required to make super tough runs (except the ballbuster) at celebration events: quite the contrary. Make the runs fairly easy so hashers can enjoy the party afterwards. When people are wiped out from the run, they eat the meal afterwards and leave right away. I've seen this over and over again. Look at the demographics of your registrants. If they indicate they want a walk or a short run, give them that.. maybe 4 to 5 k at most if it's gentle terrain. If tough shiggy terrain, make it shorter. Rant over.

Regarding communication, I thought this was good. The info booklet we got in our goody bag told us what we needed to know. There were quite a few email blasts and the website had lots of useful information..

Overall, I thought mother hash did a good job with the 80th anniversary event.

One nice touch they provided was access to the Royal Selangor Club where it all got started. Normally, you cannot enter the club unless you are a guest of a member. But for this weekend only, your registration wristband got you access. The Royal Selangor Club is mecca for hashers. The original building where G and his cohorts drank in 1938 was destroyed in a fire but the current structure has been there for at least twenty years. It looks like one of those stuffy private clubs from the British colonial era which it tries to emulate. There are several bars in the place plus a hash heritage museum with all sorts of memorabilia from the hash. One cool thing in there is a hash genealogy chart which shows when various clubs started, along with their parents and spawn. It's several years out of date. Lots of hash clubs have started in the last few years. But still fascinating to look at. One controversial part of the Selangor Club is the Long bar which is for men only. No women or kids. It's not really very remarkable.. But harriettes were going in there anyway.. I saw at least one get kicked out. If you are visiting KL, contact mother hash and see if you can go as a guest of a member.

Mark 2038 on your calendars for the 100th anniversary! I'm betting it will also be at merdeka stadium!

And to summarize again:

Mother hash is cool because it doesn't give a f*ck about being cool!

Mother Hash 80th Anniversary

A Tale of Two Trails

by Quick Drawers

The two designated “Old Farts Trails” offered during this weekend event were totally different, especially in the key area concerning level of physical fitness required!

Yes, I’ll explain this!

On approximately page 18-20, of the booklet the hashers received, as part of their excellent goody bag, were Mother Hash specific comments and trail descriptions. It was advised the organizers had introduced a 4th run type called “Old Farts Run” which was to be “Not really a run but a walking opportunity. These will be 1 to 2 km in length wherein you can turn around at any point to the beer truck. They will be flat (no hills). They will provide for those who want the experience of the Malaysian countryside, but not the exertion of a run.” Sounds really good, for any physically limited hashers, right? This guidance was of course not followed by the Hares for the Saturday only, short Old Fart Run!!!

The run description for Saturdays Old Fart Run at the Taman Agrotech Run Site stated: “The Old Farts run here is perhaps the best of the lot. Starting on the tarmac, it enters the primary and secondary jungle on a wide, level and abandoned logging road. It is the closest the Old Fart will get to experience jungle at extreme ease.”

Again, positive comments, so any physically challenged or possibly even a hungover or lazy hasher may choose to wander along with similar fellow hashers, enjoy the green countryside and have pleasant conversations.

What in fact was encountered on this Old Fart trail, papered with Short Run labeled markings, was one of the two most difficult, challenging and exhausting hash runs I have experienced! I'm amazed there were no serious injuries suffered by those Old Farts that managed to survive this 2.5-3.5 hour steep, slippery muddy, thorny, rocky, extreme Jungle trail!!!!

Trail did start out on an abandoned dirt logging road, for the first half kilometer, and then it diverted course off the logging road, over a rusty metal bridge, crossing a nicely flowing stream. On the other side a narrow, single person, winding semi-path started its uphill climb and continued to do so for about 20 minutes, before leveling off for several hundred yards. The pact at this point had reached what I have termed the point of no return. (It was later determined that about 20+ of the smarter Old Farts, turned around and returned to start from this point.) Here the pack was faced with a near vertical 25 foot slippery muddy decent, which continued downward thru a rocky area into another rocky low water stream bed. Having falsely assumed this would be a short run and trail now surely headed downward most of the pack continued onward! Coming out of the stream bed area we began what turned out to be about 45 minutes of steady nonstop steep, muddy slippery climb, only made possible with careful footing and a successful search for some piece of vegetation on which to pull yourself up a few yards of the slope each time. The average running shoe was not much of a help with the slick mud while repeating this process and means of clawing, or crawling ever upward.

After reaching the eventual top of this steep hill, trail almost immediately began the long winding muddy decent. It was still necessary to use available vegetation to slow your decent and prevent going off trail into less desirable needle like thorny vegetation. There were of course no drink stops of any sort on this extreme Jungle Run and it didn't take long to run thru the one water bottle some brought on trail, while many others that had not brought anything soon regretted that grave mistake. Hashers tried to assist each other whenever possible and of course offered words of encouragement for the many exhausted Old Farts just attempting to get out of the Jungle without injury.

Now trying to compare the printed guidance with what actually occurred, I will venture a positive guess, that the original intent of this trail was for the Old Farts to never leave the logging road??? Crossing the small bridge and onto the jungle trail upward, I hope was an individual hare mistake?? It's possible to assume an over achieving hare for taking the short run on most of the same exact trail as the normal run??? The only other choice is to assume the published run description was in error.

Pack navigating a section of road construction.

The last kilometer of trail was again back onto a downward sloping slick muddy logging road where careful footing was still required to prevent falling. A late afternoon shower managed to provide mini streams of muddy water on the last steep hill back into the run site. Those hashers already at the finish, provided cheers and Ooh's and Aah's as they watched the last of the hashers attempting to get down this last steep section without falling. Overall it was a Jungle Run which many an Old Fart, including myself, regretted doing.

The second Old Fart Run on Sunday was exactly what every run of this type was expected to be. It started at 2PM from the Merdeka Stadium venue and proceeded to wind its way on sidewalks beside busy city streets. Trail crossed several bridges, walkways, pedestrian underpasses, some muddy road construction areas, etc. A very typical downtown city run passing notable historical and governmental buildings and nearby temples. A light shower cooled off the umbrella wielding pack for part of the walk and at about the one hour mark the pack found themselves returning to the venue for refreshments and a lively circle. An ample supply of ice filled bags was available for honored members to sit upon, while being recognized for their personal achievements. This was exactly the type of run this group had hoped for and received. A job well done Hares. Thank You

The overall event itself was well organized and it was obvious that a lot of hard work went into making it a memorable success as was the 60th Anniversary event in 1998.

Thanks Mother Hash!

By Steve Roney aka Bushdiver

The Mother Hash which was the original Hash club founded in 1938 hosted its 80th Anniversary event on September 13 to 16 at Merdeka Stadium in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. There were over 2,000 hashers in attendance from all over the world so that places the event in the same category as an Interhash or a Pan Asia hash. In my opinion this was the greatest hash event in Asia for 2018. Considering the number of attendees I feel that the event was extremely well organized. Of course there the few minor glitches primarily caused by the weather or the layout of Merdeka but that is to be expected. Overall the sponsors did an excellent job and are to be commended.

Malaysia is a very mountainous country and those mountains are covered by thick jungle. Many of these mountains particularly around KL are traversed by many trails. As a result this is perfect place for serious hashers and for people that like to run or hike in the mountains. The scenery is specular and the views from the top are fantastic. Malaysia has hundreds of hash clubs and thousands of hashers. The numbers per capita far exceeds every other country in the world. It is in this environment that this event took place.

On Thursday there was a green dress run and on Friday a dinner followed by a show. I didn't attend either of these events because I came to the event to hike, I do not do street runs and I did not come just to eat and go home. On Friday evening I did the Damansara Hash instead. The hash runs were on Saturday and Sunday. Monday was the regular Mother Hash run but it really was part of the anniversary event with around 500 people in attendance.

We were instructed to meet up at Merdeka at 10am Saturday and Sunday morning. There were 5 run locations and we were requested to select the location of our choice. On Saturday I selected Location A, Bukit Lagong and on Sunday I selected Location D, Taman AgroTeck. We were loaded onto the buses and transported to these sites. Mother Hash as well as some of the other KL hash clubs has a reputation for doing difficult hash runs. The average weekly Mother Hash run is from 8 to 12 kms. and all runs are on brutal mountain trails with lots of climbing up and down. Also the weekly runs start at 6:00pm so many hashers finish in the dark. There are some KL clubs that do easier trails. For this anniversary event they really toned things down a great deal. For the event they gave us a choice of 4 different trails at each location. So that is 20 separate trails in all.

There was a long trail of about 8kms for real hashers like me, there was a medium which was also difficult but shorter, and a short which was even shorter. Then on top of that there was an old farts trail for the old people and cripples. This trail was about 2kms in length and was flat on proper roads. The original founders probably would roll over in their graves if they knew that the mother hash actually did this type of trail. Anyway I did the long trails and I thought they were fantastic. We went up steep hills and down steep hills. They had sweepers along the way to make sure no one got lost or hurt. The consensus among everyone that did these trails was positive. Along with this article are pictures and I think these pictures speak for themselves. If you like beautiful challenging trails Malaysia is the place for you.

After the trails there was the usual circle, drinking beer and socializing. We then loaded back on the buses and returned to Merdeka. In the evening there was every kind of food that anyone could want followed by entertainment. They put on some sort of dragon show which everyone enjoyed. As part of the event they gave us 3 shirts, a small back pack and some other small stuff. In addition we had the opportunity to purchase more hash shirts from old events at the hash bazaar.

On Monday there was the usual Mother Hash evening event for men only. This was a joint run with the PJ Animals Hash and there were about 500 people in attendance. Again there was a choice of runs, short, medium and long. I think there also was an old farts run but I really cannot remember. Actually I thought this run was not that difficult. After the run there was the usual food, beer, circle and bus ride back to Merdeka. On Tuesday I did the Cheras Hash which had nothing to do with the mother hash event. If anyone thought the mother hash was difficult they should have done this Cheras hash. It was much harder than anything at the mother hash event. I was 2 hours into the run and starting to get a little tired. I was hiking with about 4 other hashers and one of them said that I needed to speed it up because we still had 5kms to go. I really thought he was joking but he was not, we did another 5kms.

All in all, this event was fantastic and I am looking forward to the next big event in Malaysia. There is a Borneo Nash Hash in Kota Kinabalu September 13 to 15, 2019. There probably will be a Malaysian Nash Hash in 2019 but the dates and location have not been announced. Hope to see you there. Also if you love to hike and want to experience hash Malaysian style you can come whenever you like and do the regular hash runs with the many hash clubs. I highly recommend, Batu Hash, Dalmation Hash, Damansara Hash, Petaling Java Animals and Cheras Hash as well as Mother Hash.

Celebrating 2000 runs with Lusaka Hash, Zambia

by Julia Stanton
photos by Julia Stanton and Martina Hess

Watch out for the elephants, don't go near the friendly looking zebra, watch out for the crocodiles and the thieving baboons Don't run or walk alone, stay always in a group' warned the hares of Lusaka H3's 2000th Run. A special celebratory weekend was held at Livingstone, a small town on the Zambian side of the mighty Victoria Falls, 'the smoke that thunders', the last weekend of August to celebrate this important achievement. It was with great interest I signed up for this event.

CONTENTS

Since Livingstone has good tourist infrastructure and transport links getting there was easy, visiting hashers and ex-Lusaka hashers from the UK, Brussels, Addis Ababa, Kigali and Maputo joined and the group was around about 45 in the end. Registration was an easy process and I was impressed with the professionally printed schedule of events including lots of useful information and the song book. Along with the T-shirt and tin mug, hashers were handed a small piece of soap in the shape of a lion's paw (Lusaka H3 evidently wanted to make sure hashers kept clean.) The chosen hash resort was a mix of chalets, tented rooms and camping to suit all budgets on the banks of the Zambezi river.

The first event on the schedule was a warm up run but the hares announced that it was going to be too dangerous to do it since there was a herd of elephants on the trail. I had already noticed a herd of 14 of them on the way to the resort leaving a trail of destruction behind them in terms of fences and trees and if they were to come across any Marula fruit, they would be drunker than any hasher. (Marula fruit are the essential ingredient of Amarula, a creamy liquor from South Africa). To avoid this potential danger of meeting the elephants, the hares announced that Hash Olympics were going to be held instead and pulled out a bag of different coloured ropes to divide the group into five teams. A series of funny team games involving balloons, carrying water on your head and three legged races were played which helped to break the ice with hashers who did not know each other.

Then the highlight of the day was a sunset cruise along the Zambezi river and with the well-stocked 'all you can drink bar' and the boat booked exclusively for the hashers it was a recipe for success. The boat had a long circular bar so it was decided to do the circle of the day around it. However with the banks of the Zambezi River teeming with wildlife, there were many interruptions to circle proceedings as crocodiles, buffalo and giraffe were spotted ending with a beautiful sunset. Drinking carried onto into the night at the resort bar and then out at clubs in Livingstone town.

The schedule had been well designed with the next morning being free time to get rid of hangovers or to do one of the adventure activities on offer at Africa's adventure capital such as bungee jumping, white water rafting or a micro flight over the Falls. So after a morning of mainly nursing hangovers, the hashers gathered for the main run where they boarded a bus or got into cars to go to the trail start. Again the hares warned of the potential risk of coming across wild animals and not being left alone on trail. It was a hot, long and steep trail down steps and scrambling over hot rocks to the bottom of the river gorge where fine views could be seen before scrambling all the way up again to a welcoming cold Mosi, the local beer sponsoring the hash. There were orange quarters to eat although we had to be careful to eat them quickly and not leave the peel on the ground since baboons love oranges. Before long a family did come out of the bush smelling oranges but Just Bruce, a virgin hasher from Zimbabwe soon chased them away with his axe and catapult.

After a very long beer stop it was back on trail to the end where a busy circle was held with charges and ice plus a potty full of beer for the hash shit. Since the only substance we had been given was an orange I charged and gave Lusaka Hash the award of Starvation hash for 2018 since the Ethiopian Mountain Challenge did manage to feed the hashers properly this time as verified by fellow visiting hashers. There was also a naming for Just Bruce who became the 'Smoker that Thunders' based on his smoking and issue with wind plus the fact that Victoria Falls is referred to the 'smoke that thunders.' Then it was back in the cars and bus but blocking the road on the way back for a dance. Luckily there were no elephants and the hashers danced much better than Teresa May's effort on her recent visit to South Africa.

The day ended with a spectacular brai (barbecue) Southern African style with hashers being responsible for cooking their own meat and fish eaten together with salads. Unfortunately the music and sound system were a bit lacking for a good dance party. Although it was enough for the resort management to complain about the amount of noise so the day came to a prompt close.

The final day involved a visit to Victoria Falls to view and take photos at all the viewing sites along with beer plus a walk down the gorge to the 'boiling pot' for hashers who still had energy. Overall, it was a fantastic and very memorable weekend to mark an important milestone. Also it was very well organised from start to finish.

Japan Nash Hash 2018

By Steve Roney aka Bushdiver

Japan Nash Hash "Zen-Nip-pOn-On 2018" was held at Makino Japan for 3 days from October 6th to 8th. The event was hosted by The Combined Hashes of Kansai. Makino is a country town located on the northwest coast of Biwako (Lake Biwa), Japan's largest lake, and surrounded on three sides by mountains. Makino is 73 kms. north of Kyoto. There were a total of 154 hashers in attendance primarily from various hash clubs in Japan and Taiwan and other nearby countries. Many of these people were American and Australian expats working and/or living in Asia.

This hash was somewhat unusual for me because included in the price of the event was two nights in Oku-Biwako Makino Park Hotel plus all of the meals and drinks for the entire event. I think everyone got to Makino by train. As a result everyone that attended the event was together for the entire time. All of the trails started and ended at the hotel. After the trails there was food, drinks, entertainment and a circle all of which was at the hotel. The hash rented the entire hotel so only hashers were there. Because of many hours together many of us who stated the event as strangers left as friends. I know that it is hard to find a place like this to hold an event in other parts of the world but this truly is a fantastic way to hold a hash.

In total there were four hash runs during the three days. On Saturday afternoon there was a run primarily in the flat area between the mountains and the lake. There was a short trail of 3 kms. a medium of 8 kms. and a long of 17 kms. These trails were very picturesque but not very difficult. On Sunday morning there was a short run primarily along the shore of the lake. On Sunday afternoon there was the standard short, medium, long and ball breaker runs. Except for the short trail the other runs went up thru the mountains.

The mountain trails were challenging and in my opinion fantastic. The mountains are completely covered by coniferous trees. On Monday morning there was a short recovery run primarily along the shore of the lake.

After the Saturday and Sunday runs we ate dinner and then gathered in a party room of the hotel for a circle, entertainment and a long night of drinking beer. One of the hash clubs prepared boilermakers that were passed out to whoever wanted one. Needless to say some of the hashers got very intoxicated. All in all everyone had a great time. Unfortunately many people had bad hangovers the next day.

The Japan hash hash is an annual event held every year in October. Next year's event will be hosted by the Sumo H3. This club is located in Kanagawa which is part of metro Yokohama and Tokyo. Plans have not been released as to where the event will take place but it probably will be somewhere similar to this year's event but near Tokyo.

Haggis Bash

LA UNION H3 HAGGIS BASH #14

SATURDAY 1 DECEMBER 2018

In 2005 some 20+ LUH3 hashers put on face paint and dressed up in women's clothing pretending it was traditional Scottish dress! It has expanded to the largest single annual hash event in the Philippines with 160+ attending. Aside from dressing up, for which many don't need an excuse, Hash "Highland" games are now held, preceded by a hash run. Of course there is beer and also Scottish beverages and traditional fare. Tee shirts and other mementos are also provided in the run fee.

Three Scottish hashers, Honeydew and Micro P. Dick (La Union H3) and Single Malt (Angeles City H3) first promoted the idea and it has expanded from there.

La Union H3 has some of the best hashing country of the Philippine Hashes. Trails (short, medium and long) start right outside Tropical Garden with no transport and suit all abilities, covering all terrains, including spectacular mountain and coastal views. Trails converge and end at the Haggis Games site close to Tropical Garden.

14th Annual La Union H3 Haggis Bash takes place at Tropical Garden Resort!

Hash Haggis Games

The Saturday event starts early to allow for the Hash Haggis Games. Recent events have seen this as a friendly competition between the Philippine Hashes. Games are for all ages, children are more than welcome at this family event. Many games are for “older kids’ who have not outgrown their childhood. We do not plan for hashers to make fools of themselves as most can do this without any help from us. So please bring a sense of humour.

Games with a hash take on traditional Scottish and other games include; tossing the Bamboo Caber, Chucking the Welly; Egg and Spoon race; Wibbly Wobbly Pole; Walking the Plank; and the now infamous Pie Eating Contest. The latter is more than a pie and you need a strong stomach just to watch, never mind participate. Games end with a Tug o’ war and the last two events have ended in a “Tug Off” between La Union and Manila hashes to determine the champion. In both cases Manila won. There is a strong suspicion that Manila undertakes high altitude and Special Forces training in advance.

Note: There have been some, mainly alcohol related, injuries and mishaps over the years. You have been warned.

Sack race

Snacks, Refreshment and Entertainment

No respectable Hash or Highland Games would be without these. Aside from beer, beer and beer, our resident Frog sets up a drinks table with an array of Whiskies, as well as homemade Drambuie, Athol Brose and other Scottish drinks to hand. Careful, there are usually several “security guards” around this table! Scotch Eggs are served to stave off the alcohol effects. We have been lucky in recent years that Deviant from Angeles City H3 has played the bagpipes. We also coerce (sorry invite) some Harriette’s to put on a display of “Traditional Scottish Dancing”.

After the Games there is the Hash Circle. Be warned La Union down downs come with a free shower. Then back to tropical garden for dinner.

Dinner

Traditional Scottish favourites like Mince and Tatties and Cullen Skink are served, and yes there is Haggis. The Haggis Bash coincides with the start of the Haggis season in Scotland so in recent years we have been lucky to get freshly caught Haggis flown over from a secret Scottish Glen just for LUH3. The Haggis is piped in by Deviant and served with a special Scottish sauce after being addressed by Dances with Dogs. And yes there is still plenty of beer and other drinks to consume.

Goodies and Sponsors

In best Scottish tradition we try to keep costs down and fortunately solicit sponsorship from local businesses and individuals. This allows us to put on a better event and have other giveaways as well as small prizes for games participants. As well as a Hash shirt, in recent years we have also had umbrellas, mugs, cups, pens, key rings, bags, socks and..... Scottish Shirt themes have included; Haggis, Robbie Burns, Braveheart, Rab C. Nesbit, The Broons, Tossing yer Caber and Nessie.

Our sponsors include NT Asia, Ambassador Suites (Angeles City) and Paradise Inn, Pejos, and Sunset Bay (all La Union).

Individual sponsors will receive a designer shirt unique to Haggis Bash 14. Contact Honeydew for information.

The Story Behind The Pointy 'Bullet Bra' Trend Of The 1950s

To learn more about the origins of the bullet bra, we have to rewind to the 1950s, when it was in perfectly good taste to walk around with giant triangle boobs.

At the time, pointy bras were the hottest trend. A new circular sewing technique (called the "whirlpool circle stitch") gave your bosoms that sexy "missile" look that went perfectly with the skin-tight sweaters of the period. The tight sweater-bullet bra pairing was then dubbed the "pointy look."

The bras, which gave the wearer an especially voluptuous chest, were quickly snapped up by big 1950s stars like Patti Page, Elizabeth Taylor, Marilyn Monroe and Brigitte Bardot. However, as Dangerous Minds tells us, one had to be careful you didn't poke the eyes out of any close admirer but at the same time was a good defence against any would be rapist. Note: This has been a very trying time finding these pictures

Three dead on final day of Poundworld closing down sale

Questions are being raised following the trampling of three shoppers in riots on the final day of opening of Poundworld at Sheffield Heeley Retail Park. As feral locals stripped the shelves of tacky plastic goods at 70 per cent off, it is thought the victims may have been knocked over as they bent down to pick up dropped items such as a three pack of batteries with a collective life of half an hour or a solar garden ornament in the shape of a grinning frog sitting on a toadstool. Many customers reported a total saving of up to £5 after queuing for 90 minutes at the single open till.

Andrew White, a keen bargainologist said "My mobile phone charger lead keeps fraying so I have bought eight replacements so I will never run out. Mind you, it's pretty unlikely my next phone will have the same socket, so I may not need five or six of them. Still, they were only 39p each. Though I did have to scramble over a corpse to get at them." His friend Nick Hodgson was initially delighted to have bought 14 packs of Revels at half price, despite the fact he can't abide the orange creams. Or the coffee ones. And the raisins. But once the buying frenzy wore off he admitted "On reflection I'd have been better just buying a big bag of Maltesers at Lidl. And I wouldn't have stamped on that guy's head." Shop manager, Rick Wilson said "Oh my God, I can't believe it. There's no way I could have foreseen, anticipated or prophesied a riot."

Entire Tory Party arrested in clampdown on middle class cocaine users

The Conservative Party is facing a huge crisis today after its entire membership was arrested during a clampdown on middle class cocaine users. PC Drug-Bust McGee told us, "We'd heard there was a huge gathering of alleged known cocaine users in Birmingham. We acted on that intelligence and raided the conference center this morning. We've made hundreds of arrests. We're probably going to have to build a new prison to house this lot." Dr Frederick Seddon of Rochdale College said, "You see this all the time. It's middle class people who are all into eating healthily and organically and making ethical choices when it comes to t-shirts. They even bemoan the rise of county-lines drugs gangs and demand the police do something in their neighborhoods to stop it whilst simultaneously snorting some powder that was made with petrol by some South American peasant who will be killed if he doesn't make it." Seddon went on, "These people think it's edgy and a bit cool to be doing cocaine like they're on Narcos instead of someone who sells mobile phones or a living. They invite you round, serve you badly cooked food and babble incoherently at you for an entire evening. The next thing you know they're gurning at a mirror and pretending that the pains in their left arm are indigestion and not a cocaine induced heart attack waiting to happen. Then when they finally do suffer the heart attack at 45 they blame the BPA's in twenty pound notes." PC Drug-Bust McGee told us, "Drugs really damage you. The Tory party are proof of that."

The Story Behind The Beer At The Folies Bergere

Paris 1882: Edouard Manet Meets Bass Ale

Sure, we're the same species as the Homo sapiens depicted in pre-20th century paintings, but who hasn't felt a disconnect when gazing in the art world's rear view mirror—a chasm separating earlier cultures from our own? In that, transformations in material culture deserve much of the credit. Which is one good reason why Edouard Manet's A Bar at Folies-Bergere, painted a year before his death in 1883, is exceptional.

Look at the counter of the bar in the above painting. You'll see two bottles of Bass Pale Ale, with their familiar red triangle logo. It's a brand that many of us know first hand. Seeing it in the painting connects us in a wink with late 19th century patrons (many of them perhaps British tourists) at Folies-Bergerie. All at once, via a commercial logo, we've discovered a bridge over a cultural chasm. A Bar at Folies-Bergere must also be our longest-running example (albeit inadvertent) of product placement. Marketers at Bass must exult: 136 years of exposure to the brand in galleries and art books—that's a lot of eyeballs!

The Red Triangle

In 1777 William Bass, the owner of a carrying business between London and Manchester, established a brewery in Burton-on-Trent. The Department of Registration of Trademarks opened in London on January 1, 1876. The first registered trademark was the red triangle of Bass & Co. which had already been in use for twenty years. During the nineteenth century, the company's beer became known throughout the world. The company's rapid growth and profitability were by-words in Victorian Britain. Michael Thomas Bass (1799-1884), the architect of its greatness, was very much the doyen of Victorian brewers. The bottles of Bass in Manet's painting are exotic foreign beer, suggesting luxury rather than the commonplace.

HOLY HELLFIRE BATMAN, THE HASH IS 80 YEARS OLD!

Even our very own spry 79-year old Hashman, Sir Clever Dick, was just a twinkle in his Dad's eye when the Hash House Harriers was founded in 1938.

Will the Hash go the way of the dinosaurs and be extinct in another generation, or will new generations of hashers step into the well worn shoes of their fore-bearers?

Hashing began in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia in 1938, when a casual group of British colonial officials and expatriates, Cecil Lee, Frederick "Horse" Thomson, Ronald "Torch" Bennett, and a British accountant of Catalan descent Albert Stephen Ignatius Gispert (A. S. Gispert) would meet after work on Monday evenings to run, following a paper trail, through the environs of Kuala Lumpur to get rid of the excesses of the previous weekend.

There were other members of the group, John Woodrow, who is rarely credited as one of the founders as he left Malaysia after the war to return home to his family in Scotland and Sussex man Mortimer Cecil Hay. (see next page) Sometime late in 1938, 9 Harriers were in the Hash House and it was proposed a formal name be adopted. G came up with the name. This was stated by Cecil in a later interview.

At any rate, it is time to celebrate the 80th Anniversary of Mother, which is alive and thriving in Kuala Lumpur-the birthplace of the Hash House Harriers. Many of us remember the 60th Anniversary of the Hash at Stadium Merdeka in 1998. Some may recall the 40th Anniversary in 1978, but few active hashmen around today began hashing before 1968.

So let's raise a glass to our founder, the honourable A.S. Gispert who is credited with starting a sport that spread around the world to every continent and to every country. Frank Zappa reportedly said that "It is not a real country unless it has a beer and an airline"..... We would add that it should not be considered a real country unless it has a Hash House Harriers chapter.

This edition is dedicated to Mother Hash, to "G", and to the multitudes of hashers who have followed in their footsteps. This may not have been intended to refer to Hashing, but Leon Felipe, an anti-Facist Spanish poet, could not have put it better: "The important thing is not to get there first and alone, but to get there all together and in time.".....MaliBog

Hasher furious after 'inadequate' sports briefs give his testicles severe friction

A 34-year-old Hasher from Stockholm has been describing his anger after he purchased a pair of Adidas sports briefs that offered an "inadequate" level of support, leaving his testicles with dangerous friction burns.

He told the Hash Trash that the 400 crown garment left his scrotum 'red raw' after going for a jog on Thursday morning.

He said, 'I am furious with Adidas over this.'

'I should have known from the start that I was buying a shoddy product - the logo looks completely wrong for starters.'

'This is sexism in its worst possible form. Items that are designed for ladies' intimate areas always offer a comprehensive amount of support.'

'I had a jog along the park this morning, and by the time I reached the Pub it felt like my balls were actually on fire because I was running in trackie bottoms.'

'I know that men like a decent amount of airflow down there to prevent a build-up of smegma, but this was an absolute piss take.' A spokesperson for Adidas confirmed that they do not actively produce open gusset garments for the male market.

Conor McGregor Banned From Fighting After Potatoes Found Growing Out Of His Ears

Conor McGregor, the former UFC featherweight and lightweight champion, has been suspended from all forms of fighting after potatoes were found growing in his lugholes.

McGregor, 30, the mixed martial artist, who is never far from controversy, was attending a routine check-up at his doctor when, on examining the Irishman's ears, the observant quack spotted what seemed to look like - and indeed was - a spud bud poking past his eardrum.

On further investigation, the medic was able to ascertain that there was a veritable crop of potatoes in the Irishman's ears, and ruminated that, if only McGregor had been alive during the Potato Famine days of the 1840s, more than a million Irish lives might have been saved.

An ear expert later said that McGregor's ear condition perhaps explains why he seems deaf to all warnings about his behavior outside the cage.

What sort of utter shitshow lets 50 million accounts get hacked?

Seriously, what sort of utter shitshow allows the accounts of 50 million fucking users to be compromised because of a flaw in their code?

Because of Facebook's utter twattery, there are now 50 million people around the world who have had their privacy violated. All of those bunny eared selfies. Leaked.

All of those identically filled rows of Tupperware along with details of whatever body part you 'smashed' today. Leaked.

All of those really vague threats against 'you know who you are but I can't say here because there are too many snakes.' Leaked.

All of those five-word statuses that you posted with that stupid bastard tool that turns them into colourful titles because you are so desperate for fucking attention. Leaked.

All of those direct messages from your 58-year-old mum where the three dots were on the screen for about three days before she just said 'OK.' Leaked.

All of those images of your kids with half of their face hanging off and you asking if you think you should take them to A&E or Superdrug. Leaked.

So thanks a lot Facebook. Top fucking work.

Trump Family Signs Contract for Reality Show to Compete With the Kardashians

Mar-A-Lago, FL Eric Trump has let it slip that the Trump family will star in their own reality show. It's planned to start as soon as Trump is removed from office. Most of the family believes that it won't be that long and are preparing.

Some of the plots will revolve around the family trying to avoid the FBI and Secret Service and stay out of jail for felonies they committed and money they stole while in the White House. A really funny plot is planned where Ivanka needs to go shopping and needs to have Jarrad run down and get some laundered money from the Russian cartel. Hilarity ensues.

Kim Kardashian sent this photo with a message, "Kiss my ass Ivanka!" since she knows Ivanka is jealous of her ass.

Stop press: Donald Trump was rushed to an emergency room by Secret Service agents today apparently after a tweet storm about slapping more tariffs on everybody.

But nobody knew what room he was in, and by the time we got to him, he had started slapping himself silly, saying he was slapping tariffs on himself."

Treasury announces British economy based on booze and barbeques

The Government has announced that the UK's economy is now based solely on beer and barbeques.

In a statement the Treasury said, "The sunny weather has really helped the economy. With much better growth than expected we analysed the data and worked out it's definitely linked to the hot weather. Further analysis showed that barbeque sales were up as was beer sales. Now if we maintain this kind of level we'll have the deficit paid off in no time"

The news from the treasury seems to contradict guidance from the Department of Health that people should cut down on the amount of drink they consume.

One spokesperson said, "Having to treat all these drinkers is costing the NHS a lot of money. The Treasury should stop encouraging people to drink more and concentrate on maintaining a healthy productive work force."

In response, a Treasury spokesman said, "Are you mugging me off? I didn't study economics for 5 years to be talked down to by the likes of you. Come on, outside."

At this point a DEFRA spokesman told the Health spokesman, "Calm down, it's not worth it."

Drinking enthusiast Bill Board, 47 told us, "My drinking and eating of carbonized cheese burgers is what's going to turn this country around. You don't see the millennials drinking 11 pints of beer a night. No, they wouldn't know what graft was if it hit them in the face. Mark my words, as soon as I've died from Liver failure this country will go down the pan."

Shock as traces of vegetables found in supermarket ready meals

Food enthusiasts have demanded an enquiry after research showed that as many as 1 in 10 supermarket ready meals contain trace amounts of vegetables.

A Burnley resident told us, "I was shocked when I opened the packet and there was these red and green things staring back at me. I had to ask my wife what it was. They didn't know either so we took it to the local library to try to identify it. It turns out it was tomato and something called rocket. It's amazing that they've made rockets so small. I remember when they used to be as big as a house. I like meat. I always avoid meals that say vegan or suitable for vegetarians and I expect meat if I don't see those words on the packet. I feel sick that I might have eaten something that wasn't a dead animal."

A spokesperson for leading supermarkets said, "We have always advised our customers to check the label. Every now and again we like to shove a surprise in our ready meals. Like when we killed all those horses and made out it was Salmon. Just because a product may not be aimed at the vegan/vegetarian market it still might contain vegetables."

Whilst many people feel the supermarkets should be held to account, Steve "Stevie" Stevenson told us he blames Jaimie Oliver. "I blame Oliver. If I wanted to improve my health I'd quit cocaine."

One leading health expert did contact us to say that under no circumstances is cocaine considered one of your five a day despite it being derived from plants.

Trump nominates Bill Cosby for US Supreme Court

Bill Cosby has been elected to the US Supreme Court after being sentenced for sex assault.

Cosby, who today received a 10 year sentence for drugging and sexually assaulting a woman over a decade ago was declared a sexually violent predator by the sentencing judge.

One White House insider told us, "That's just the sort of qualifications that POTATUS looks for in a Supreme Court judge. In fact, if he wasn't black he'd probably get the Republican nomination for next POTATUS. Plus, he has the sort of time he'll need to devote to the post now."

POTATUS, Donald Trump made the announcement today shortly after nap-time. "Bill Cosby is a good guy, a great guy. He was really focussed on being the best in comedy in the entire country. I know comedy very well."

On the subject of the historic sexual allegations Trump said, "I have no doubt that, if the attack on these women was as bad as they say, charges would have been immediately filed with local Law Enforcement Authorities by either the women or their loving parents. I ask that they bring those filings forward so that we can learn date, time, and place!"

One Republican voter told us, "I'm naked from the waist down because of POTATUS. I'm not giving my guns up and if that means a convicted rapist is a Supreme Court Justice then so be it. Snowflakes."

It's understood that many Democrats intend to demonstrate at the move. POTATUS dismissed them accusing them of fake news despite a jury finding Cosby guilty.

Many Republican voters are also inclined to side with Trump as they fear that should he be defeated on this issue Democrats will pass a law whereby homosexuals are allowed to wander round taking their guns off Republican voters.

Whenever I go on the Henfield Hash it rains. To which they reply: No whenever you come on the Henfield Hash it rains And today was no different.

However the RA did some mumblings and lo and behold the rain eased off.

So away we headed into the muddy Sussex countryside, across green grass fields and wet ditches. Along country lanes you only find in Sussex. The walkers and runners meet up along a muddy trail as we head in the direction of the long distant Pub.

As much as Pooh missed Piglet, he really did enjoy that bacon sandwich.

A MAN RUNS INTO THE GOLF CLUB HOUSE AND YELLS HELP, IS THERE A DOCTOR IN THE CLUB, THE DOCTOR SAYS HERE I AM, WHAT SEEMS TO BE THE TROUBLE?THE MAN SAYS A WOMAN HAS BEEN HIT BY A GOLF BALL. SOME PEOPLE SEEM TO THINK I WAS HAVING A GOOD TIME IN SUSSEX.

WELL I CAN TELL YOU NOW, IT'S HARD WORK BETWEEN THE BRIGHTON HASH ON THE 17th TO THE 24th THERE'S A LOT OF BEER DRINKING TO ACHIEVE

One day a Brighton Hasher looks out his window and can't believe his eyes. There in his tree is a huge male gorilla so he calls 999 and the operator tells him there is a city wide-hunt for the gorilla and a specialist team will be sent to him shortly. Twenty minutes later a van pulls up and a soldier comes running up to his door. The hasher opens the door and points the gorilla out to the soldier who says, "I'm going to need your help to capture this gorilla!" The soldier takes him to his van, opens the door and takes out a pair of handcuffs, a goat and a shotgun. "Here's what we need to do," says the soldier; "I'll climb up and start shaking the tree until the gorilla falls out. When he hits the ground, the trained goat will butt the gorilla in the nuts. In pain the gorilla will throw his arms in the air and all you have to do is put the handcuffs on him. OK?" "OK!" Says the hasher, "But what is the shotgun for?" "If I fall out of the tree first. Shoot the goat!"

A group of Brighton Hashers, all turning 40, discussed where they should meet for lunch. Finally it was agreed that they would meet at Wetherspoons in Brighton Marina because the bar staff had big jugs and wore mini-skirts. Ten years later, now aged 50, the friends once again discussed where they should meet for lunch. Ten years later, at age 60, the friends again discussed where they should meet for lunch. If you are planning to visit the Brighton Hash in the near or distant futures and happen to come from one of the many countries that drive on the wrong side of the road, the following advice, direct from the BH7 RA, is for you: Visitors are informed that in the United Kingdom traffic drives on the left-hand side of the road. In the interests of safety, you are advised to practise this in your country of origin for a week or two before driving in the UK.

If you were to invent a beer city it would be Brighton & Hove. We've got sunshine, sea, crazy golf, chips on the pier, sticks of rock, a gaudy royal palace, a tenacious football team, a vibrant music scene, a diverse bunch of folk, some very fine brews and lots of wonderful beer venues plus the celebrated Brighton Hash and a number of other Hash Clubs in the Sussex area to keep you occupied between the beers No wristbands. No lanyards. No tokens. No beer tent. Brighton & Hove is all about the venues and the breweries that bring great beer to the city every day to showcase the very best in beer and brewing from Brighton & Hove and beyond. This is about worldclass beer served where it should be: in the pubs, bars, restaurants and bottle shops that bring it to you all year round. And it's about a whole heap more than that because this is Brighton & Hove and we know how to throw a party.

Not far from Brighton is the Eastbourne Beachy Head Marathon, one the biggest off-road marathons in the UK. Previously known as the Seven Sisters Marathon until 2001 and since 2002 as the Beachy Head Marathon. It is popular for its scenic and challenging route through the South Downs National Park countryside. Great for Hashers, runners, joggers or walkers looking to get fit. <http://www.beachyheadmarathon.co.uk/default.aspx>

Of course Brighton & Hove have their own marathon. The Brighton Marathon Weekend is an exciting three-day event that takes place each April in buzzing Brighton. Over 15,000 participants including many Hashers from near and far from the UK and abroad take part across the three running events, while over 150,000 spectators take to the city streets to show their support. <https://www.brightonmarathonweekend.co.uk/>

Elderly gentleman on sign fed up with wife's hand up his arse

The elderly gentleman who appears on a warning triangle on thousands of British roads has revealed that he is 'fed up' with his wife having her hand up his bottom.

Speaking to our news team today, 89-year-old Arthur Ringpiece said that what started out as a bit of 'kinky fun' was now causing him a huge amount of discomfort.

He added: 'When I first modelled for the photo on 1971, my wife Elsie suggested that she put her entire fist up in there as it is all the rage at the time, and I have to admit that it has really helped to pass the time during those long, boring periods in the countryside when no bugger drives past.'

However, old age waits for nobody, and anatomically and logically I am a very different person now.'

'I can't fart without making a terrible whistling sound, and my prostate is now the size of an American football – at least the walking stick gives me a bit of support.'

'I've always thought that the whole thing was really sexist anyway – not once have the Highway Code people popped round and asked if we could change position.'

'I'd like to see how she handles me shoving my whole hand up her tuppence, all in the name of warning passing motorists that there may be geriatrics around.'

'We look a silhouette of Keith Harris and Orville gone wild.' Wife Elsie added: 'It's not my fault. I suffer from terrible water retention and it just sort of got stuck.'

Mum's Horror after learning son has no food allergies or special dietary requirements

A politically precise mother from Stockholm has been speaking out about the 'horror' of finding out that her two-year-old son has absolutely no food allergies or special dietary requirements.

Samantha Fuch-Weet, who is 32 and mum to Wellesley, told our reporter that she is willing to open up just to raise awareness about how difficult it is to cope with a child who is 'different.' She said: 'It's starting to make me feel incredibly isolated in my group of mummy friends.' 'Whenever we meet in Starbucks, they all have a pre-formatted list of questions to ask a member of staff behind the counter, and yet my Wellesley can just shove whatever he likes down his throat.'

'I've even tried asking my GP if I can self-declare him as lactose intolerant just so I have something to talk about on my favourite Facebook group.'

First BMW In Space Causes Six-vehicle Pile Up After Driver Refuses To Indicate

The first successful launch of a BMW into orbit has ended in disaster after the driver failed to indicate and caused a six-vehicle pile up.

According to a report from the Intergalactic News Agency, the driver of the German-made vehicle Hans Keine-Looke was approaching a T-junction while browsing for neon strip lights on eBay on his iPhone and proceeded to just turn right without indicating first.

Traffic was already heavy in the area as the annual Vintage Thermometer Exhibition starts this weekend on Mercury.

A local Police creature said, 'A number of drivers have been taken to hospital as a precaution, including the Mayor of Gargalon whose pod was caught up in the incident.'

'We have impounded the vehicle and arrested the driver while our enquiries continue, and in our own laboratory we have tested the BMW's indicator mechanism extensively.'

'Our forensics team has concluded that it works perfectly in zero gravity conditions.'

'The driver would have had his wits about him at all times as there was plenty of oxygen being provided by his space suit, so we have to assume that he was probably just deprived of oxygen at the moment when he made the decision to purchase a BMW.'

It has been a difficult week for the space exploration industry after it was reported that the first ever space test of a Hyundai i10 led to a 34-mile tailback because the driver refused to cruise at more than five miles per hour.

Witnesses in the area at the time even said that an asteroid that was bound for Earth abandoned its original course after seeing a sticker that said 'Please leave five metres clear behind this vehicle at all times as I am really shit at getting out of tight spaces.'

'I still remember the moment when he told me that all of his tests came back negative – not even a slight rash when eating cherry tomatoes. I wouldn't wish that pain on my worst enemy.' Samantha now belongs to a local support group called the 'Stockholm Parents Of Normies'.

It is a small gathering of like-minded parents who chat about life's everyday struggles like being able to accept a party invitation without turning it into an episode of 'CSI Sausage Roll Unit' about the proposed buffet.

She also says that her son's pre-school Little Buggers in Kungsholmen has been 'incredibly supportive' of her situation by allowing all of his friends to have Nutella and Quaver sandwiches in the same room at the same time.

If you have been affected by the issues in this story – you are not alone. Well actually, you probably are.

BRIGHTON HASH #2200 AT A SNAILS PACE At Crown and Anchor, Preston Park

Naughty Lily was supposed to have claimed the following week, to follow Randoms 40th birthday, but Dave Taylor got in first, having been offering a sip at his house for a very long time. Coupled with a possible two ale-trail stamps Seaford was an attractive option, but Dave could only do the 24th. I was still prattling on about the ale trail and suggested maybe the Westbourne and Ginny's beach hut would make a good pair but the 'new home' card meant the sip-stop was predetermined so Lily attempted to veer Random towards a decent pub giving her until 9pm to decide at the Crown last week. She opted for the Sportsman at Withdean, but those present persuaded Lily to veto, making the Crown and Anchor a far more attractive option despite not being ale-trail.

At the chalk talk was the announcement that we would also be visiting Snails 42, 9 and 5 as some surprises with a pregnant Parsnip putting in an appearance. To avoid people missing the sip, hare thought he'd leave the on-mark until he left, but somehow myself and Kick'im missed it and missed the entire return trail by dropping down and running along the A24 instead of the shorter line path. Circling-up the hares were downed with Lily being assisted by virgin hare Kel, while Randoms name was on the sheet for a wine birthday DD. We also had a few VIP's including Rebel for his blue plaque, Prof wearing bling from a 16.8 miler the day before, but Peter Pansy had eloped again so still didn't get recognised for his recent Gretna Green nuptials. Shame as he was also nominated for Numpty after arriving early, and running 6 miles in search of marks but failing to latch onto trail.

Arriving that very day from Stockholm for Bogeymans funeral it was fairly hilarious that within yards of the pub, Sir Malibog got lost, and missed the sip stop, only briefly coinciding with Local Knowledge on a similar trajectory while the rest of us took in much of the Preston Park parkrun course on our way over to Poppy, the first of tonight's snails.

Tackling the steps at Lovers Walk we headed up to join Port Hall Road, where Rebel Without informed us we'd passed his first ever wearing bling from a 16.8 miler the day before, but Peter Pansy had eloped again so still didn't get recognised for his recent Gretna Green nuptials. Shame as he was also nominated for Numpty after arriving early, and running 6 miles in search of marks but failing to latch onto trail.

We are not worthy! It was obviously the Dyke Road Park next for another snail, and then we headed down to the Old Shoreham Road, to jaunt along to Hove Park for a final photo opportunity.

Having been loitering around at the back of the field for a few months I exploited my advantage fully hitting this snail first, before majestically leading pack round much of the Hove Park parkrun to the bottom of Three Cornered Copse.

Changing gear, the entire pack were soon distant dots in the rear view mirror as I accelerated up the hill, check after check seamlessly failing to catch me out as I punished the earth resolutely with cries of "On on!"

Having determined that perhaps I should hold for the underlings at the apex it was rather upsetting to chance upon a fishhook that, like so many snakes and ladders, dragged me back down to the bottom of the hill and the back of the pack. Now broken I settled into my new position on the greensward until, passing the windmill, the brain kicked in and I remembered that we were nearly at the sip!

Backing on to the green the Lily/Sparkles garden and summer house does a great Prosecco and delicious homemade sos rolls and cheesy pasties. Most of the walkers had made it, as well being in the numbers! Another great hash!.....OnOn Bouncer

Nintendo Goes Bust After Stormy Daniels Admits Trump Has COCK Like A 'Mario Kart Mushroom'

A spokesperson for Nintendo has confirmed that the entire worldwide company has gone out of business after sales just 'died completely' as a result of Stormy Daniels' announcement that President Trump has a cock like one of the mushrooms from Mario Kart.

Speaking to the press, the console giant's Hidetoshi Yoshi said that this was a 'dark day' for video gaming.

He added, 'Our global sales of Mario Kart and Super Mario have just stopped completely because nobody wants to kick and relax while seeing something that makes them think about Trump's top-heavy wrinkly old wanger.'

'We have no idea why she couldn't have chosen a comparable figure with slightly less destructive economic consequences.'

'Would it have killed her to just say 'Ted Danson?'

'Box set sales of Cheers are pretty shit anyway these days.'

Walnut Whips banned as the name encourages sexual violence against men

A spokesperson for Nestlé has confirmed that the manufacturer will cease production of Walnut Whips in March 2019 as the name promotes sexual violence against men.

According to the confectionary giant, a complaint was received that the name 'Walnut Whip' implies that a man is having one of his testicles attacked with a riding crop, and they feel that this sort of imagery is no longer suitable for selling chocolate nougat products in 2018. He added: 'Our researchers discovered that 'walnut' is one of the most common nicknames when people discuss a man's sexual organs.'

'We are also about to launch a consultation about renaming Breakaway bars as we have received complaints from a number of Remain voters.'

In other news, Cadbury chiefs have confirmed that a hunt is underway to find a new name for their Curlywurl bar as the existing name 'conjures up imagery of pubic hair.'

Mum outraged after spotting Mercedes with SEXUALLY EXPLICIT number plate

A mum from Shoreham-by-Sea in Sussex admitted that she was DISGUSTED after she spotted a Mercedes with an obscene number plate.

She said: 'My son is only six, and as soon as he saw the plate he started spelling it out using phonics like he has been practicing at school.'

'After about thirty seconds, he just blurted out 'Mummy. What's a tit w*nk?'

'I was forced to think on my feet and I told him that it was a type of small bird, but he repeated it at school on Monday and now I have been called in to see the headteacher.'

'It is disgusting that the DVLA have allowed this number plate to pass through their system, especially as that other plate got cancelled a few months ago because it spelled out 'JIHAD.'

'What are we saying here? You can't reference Islamic terrorism but it's perfectly acceptable to describe this form of alternative sexual pursuit?'

'Mercedes should be subject to the same laws and regulations as every other car on the road.'

A spokesperson for the DVLA said: 'We would like to thank Miss Garridge for bringing this matter to our attention.'

'One of our representatives is now in contact with the plate's owner to try and come up with an alternative that conveys the same sentiments without straying into indecency.'

A boy hears a knocking at the door, he opens it, looks left, looks right, then up and down, and finally sees a snail. He throws the snail into the yard about fifty feet.

Thirty years later the man hears a knocking at the door, he goes to the door, looks up, looks right, looks up, and then sees a snail at the door step.

The snail says "What the heck was that for."

BRIGHTON HASH #2201

At The Fittingly named Old Boot Inn, Seaford

Not so fast Heinz had kindly let himself be press-ganged into setting trail, but was clearly having regrets by the time we arrived, as the restriction of swinging past Dave & Jenny's place for the sip meant he'd had to shorten the original trail. Meanwhile, Lily had a quantity of ale to drop off at Dave's first meaning he was late on parade.

As pack set off round the Salts and back on the seafront, the Saltdean Mudlarks were still parking up and struggled to find the way until they spotted torches up Seaford Head.

Suffering a lack of back marks though, they missed the turn on the golf course, picked up the original trail until that faded, then just flounced around for a bit before returning to the pub. Meanwhile the walkers found their own way thro' the winding roads of the Metropolis of Seaford, being held up waiting for Wiggy for almost getting lost at his own piss stop and when Bouncer rushed into a news agents to buy a tube of plastic mugs for the sip stop only to find there were plenty on hand.

Having reached the sip stop first the walkers had primary choice on all the goodies on hand leaving only mere morsels for the runners.

Lily and Dave had fared better, actually meeting here, so made it to the sip after a predominantly road run.

The beer, Downlands Hidden Colour, was excellent so thanks to Random and Lily for that, and DT's snacks also slipped down nicely, before the return trail through the twittens.

Circling up, Eddie was thanked for the trail (which he'd swept by bike!), DT for hosting the sip, and Lily for the beer.

Malibog received a downer for making the walkers take an even townier route than needed before presenting the hash with a new sword, 'Hashcalibur', after officially knighting Wiggy, now known as Sir Wiggy or Swiggy for short.

The presence of so many oldies in the circle prompted RA to inform us that today is in fact Grumpy Fuckers Day getting the over 70's to raise themselves on their grumbling knees to Heinz complaining, 'I'm not grumpy, just a fucker.'

Black Stockings was welcomed back but admonished for not bringing fiancé Geoff, and talking in the circle, which also dragged Spreadsheet up who moaned about his conversation being interrupted, but incidentally hadn't stood as a grumpy fucker!

Somehow Bouncer ended up taking Psychlepaths deserved beer for trying to find his missus in the Gents toilet, but the real Numpty was Falling Madonna after her inner Bogeyman took over at David's wake and she started handing round the chocolate cake to all and sundry before being informed that was for sale, not part of the funeral supper.

Circle was closed with a vote on next weeks run by Rainbow Balls from the Bent Arms (teapot stance) or for the Stand Up (fist pump!). Another great hash!.....OnOn Bouncer

SUSSEX CRIME WATCH

The Sussex Police wish to contact a man who broke into the pig enclosure at the Blackberry Farm Park 120 days ago. He was last seen running from the farm wearing a Brighton Hash T-shirt.

More News From Brighton

Records have been tumbling all week at the very first running of The Vegan Olympics taking place in Brighton.

The first big record smashed was by American athlete, Slim Jim Tomkins who successfully lifted both his arms directly above his own head on his 3rd and final attempt breaking his own previously record of just above his shoulders.

Highlights so far included in the games are 27 year old Mavis Bradley, of Canada who, managed to wade through a child's paddling pool in a fraction over two minutes and Dennis Smith of team GB who outlasted the entire field in the gold ribbon event of 'Who can go longest without mentioning that they are a Vegan', with a whopping 5 minutes and 23 seconds.

The Vegan Olympics has been designed to spread the word and show that the typical stereotypes about veganism just aren't true. The organisers say that so far it has been a resounding success despite the tricky start when more than half the competitors feeling a little too ill to take part. The closing ceremony will see Paul McCartney and his Vegan sing song. But fear not, there's still time to catch some top sporting action before then with events such as 'who can fit through the narrowest gap' 'standing up unassisted' and the 4 x 4 carrot baton 10 metre relay.

THE HASH IS 80 YEARS OLD!

Welcome to St Mary the Virgin, set in peaceful and beautiful surroundings in a fold of the South Downs National Park near Arundel. There is evidence of early Anglo-Saxon construction in the church, but most of the building is early 12th century onwards.

Set in the picturesque village of Burpham in the South Downs National Park, just over two miles from Arundel. This is a great place for visiting Hashers with the surrounding countryside and a visit to Cecil Hay's last On-Home.

Burpham is situated just over two miles from Arundel in the picturesque village of Burpham (the clue's in the name!), surrounded by the local church, village hall and cricket ground, which has beautiful views of the South Downs National Park. You can walk to the pub from Arundel along the riverbank in about 25 minutes. There are also bridal ways, cycling routes and public footpaths in the surrounding areas for all to enjoy. Arundel itself exudes history and tradition, with its Cathedral and Norman castle, home to the Dukes of Norfolk for over 800 years. The River Arun winds its way through the town and the area's attractions include the Arundel Wildfowl and Wetlands Trust, Swanbourne Lake.

The George at Burpham, that was built in 1736, is a traditional 17th century country pub which has been providing warm hospitality to villagers and visitors for over 300 years. And has been host several times to both the Chichester Hash and the Brighton Hash over the last 25 years, with good tradition ales and ciders. The village also has a century-old cricket pitch where W. G. Grace played.

The 9th Annual Norrtälje & Home Brew Hash

Thanks everyone for coming to my 9th Annual Norrtälje Hash this weekend! It was great fun to have you here and I especially enjoyed the fantastic contributions from all the brewers who participated in the Home Brew Hash competition.

However before we could participate in the beers there was the little matter of the trail to encounter. The Chalk Talk was held outside and then the pack was away following the marks into the Norrtälje countryside eventually leading the pack to the beers stops to quench our dryness. HOME AND THE

ON HOME AND CIRCLE WAS CALLED BY TWO SWEDES WHO BOTH DID A FINE JOB

While cleaning the house today, I found yet another score sheet hidden under the black garbage bag in the hallway. It wasn't complete, but I assume that the votes listed on it were meant to be counted.

So after including them, I can now tell you that we have a new winner -- Olibier's Cherry Pop brewed by Dengue Dick! Congratulations! I will bring the Sacred Mug of Homer with me to the next hash and pass it on to our worthy champion who will then select the theme and date for our next HBH. Cheers!.....OnOn Slow Brewer ere you will find the last resting place of Mortimer Cecil Hay and his wife Marjorie Kathleen Hay. Devoted Servant of this church and Village and of his Country in Malaya.

Mortimer Cecil Hay was an active member and founder of the Mother Hash in KL during the pre-war period and after. He was part of the Malayan Civil Service, 1913–1945 and served as Chief Inspector of Mines in the Federated Malay States and in the Light Battery of its volunteer artillery forces. He saw active service during the Malayan campaign, beginning with his joining the battery in mid-Dec. 1941. He saw action at Kuala Selangor and during the siege of Singapore. After its surrender, he escaped by ship on 16 Feb., reaching Sumatra on 21 Feb. and then Sri Lanka on 1 Mar. 1942. Later in life they both settled down in Burpham where they were regular members and companions of 'St Mary's' Parish Church and enthusiastic patrons of 'The George' Parish Pub.

REMEMBER, REMEMBER
THE FIFTH OF NOVEMBER
GUNPOWDER TREASON AND PLOT.

Remember, remember the fifth of November
The gunpowder treason and plot.
I see no reason why gunpowder treason
Should ever be forgot.

Guy Fawkes, 'twas his intent
To blow up king and parliament.
Three score barrels were laid below
To prove old England's overthrow.

By God's mercy he was caught
With a dark lantern and lighted match.
Holler boys, holler boys, let the bells ring
Holler boys, holler boys, God save the King.
